

Hoover Advises Revision Of U. S. Foreign Policies

NEW YORK—(AP)—“Dangerous overstraining” of American economy and continental Europe’s “inertia” in rearming, Herbert Hoover says, make it advisable that Congress reconsider U. S. foreign policies.

The former president, calling for a study of alternative actions proposes that American ground forces eventually be withdrawn from Europe while this country concentrates on air and sea power. He said an exception would be made for those U. S. forces needed to protect American air bases outside Atlantic Pact Nations.

Ground Army Opposed
Mr. Hoover’s appeal that Congress recalculate “risk of war or economic degeneration” was made yesterday in a nationwide television and radio address over the Columbia Broadcasting System.

He indicated that such a re-study of national policy would amount to the re-opening of “the great debate” of a year ago in the light of events that have happened since.

In December, 1950, Mr. Hoover joined in that foreign policy debate in a speech in which he summoned Americans to defend the western hemisphere as a “Gibraltar” of freedom.

Recommendations in yesterday’s speech closely paralleled those Mr. Hoover made in late 1950. These, in essence, would leave European Allies to concentrate on ground forces while the United States and Britain built air and sea striking power. The U. S. also would provide its friends such munitions as it could afford, but it would forego a large ground army so as not to risk endangering the national economy.

Not Helping Themselves
The 77-year-old former president reviewed events of the past year in Europe and Asia. He was critical of United Nations policy in Korea and called for revision of American relations to the U. N. charter.

He noted that since his previous speech “the only substantial additions to Western Europe ground armies” have been the divisions sent over by the United States.

“Aside from American and British divisions, it would be difficult to find 10 battle-worthy divisions in the Western European army today,” Mr. Hoover said.

Farmers Gather In East Lansing

FAST LANSING—(AP)—Michigan farmers were arriving today by plane, train and automobile for the opening of the annual farmers’ week at Michigan State College.

The mid-winter event is expected to attract more than 30,000 rural visitors to the MSC campus during the week.

Today’s session will be the annual “dairy day” with meetings for the various breed associations.

In connection with the dairy day program it was announced that F. W. Tullis of Monroe had the top producing herd for 1951. It was the third consecutive year that the Monroe farmer’s herd of registered Holstein cattle has won the contest sponsored by the dairy herd improvement association.

Each of the 20 cows in the Tullis herd average 538 pounds of butterfat—more than double the production of the average Michigan dairy cow.

A total of 59 dairymen were named to the select “four hundred club.” All of them had herds that averaged 400 pounds of butterfat production during the past five years.

West Germans Balk On Defense Troops; Want To Join NATO

By JOSEPH DYNAN
PARIS—(AP)—The West Germans say they will not furnish troops for Western defense unless they are allowed in the North Atlantic Treaty Organization.

Their surprise demand for NATO membership, made last night at a meeting of West European foreign ministers, interrupted the six-nation talks on a unified European army.

Demand Shelved
The snag came as the European diplomatic chiefs announced agreement on broad outlines and fundamental principles of a one-uniform army to function within the North Atlantic setup.

The West German delegate, State Secretary Walter Hallstein, insisted Germany should either be brought into NATO immediately or, if this were not feasible, should be given a pledge of membership later. If membership were postponed for political reasons, he demanded an interim system which would protect Germany’s rights.

Hallstein’s demand, brought up during discussions of the proposed European army’s relationship with NATO, rocked the foreign ministers from France, Italy, Belgium, Holland and Luxembourg. They shelved the demand temporarily, pending study of the German bid by their home governments.

France Worried
The ministers had hoped to finish a draft treaty for the European army at this meeting. Now they face another conference some time before Feb. 16, when the NATO council opens its sessions in Lisbon.

The chief argument for keeping Germany out of the Atlantic pact has been that NATO is a grouping of independent national armies, something that Germany is not supposed to have. The proposal to bring the Germans in is certain to arouse strong opposition in France, which fears a revival of German militarism.

The five states expecting, supplies were identified as Arizona, Colorado, Georgia, Maryland and Mississippi.

Gov. G. Mennen Williams of Michigan asked his legislature to enact a corporation profits tax as a budget balancing measure. He predicted a $53,000,000 deficit by the end of the fiscal year on the basis of current revenue.

The Maryland governor endorsed a 15 per cent cut in personal income taxes on 1951 income as a result of an estimated $11,900,000 surplus.

The chair has been used by 50 mayors, but Goebel thinks it’s time for a more modern piece of furniture.

New Government Eases War Menace In Egypt

Labor Troubles Piling Up Fast In Washington

By NORMAN WALKER

WASHINGTON—(AP)—A flock of labor troubles have been shoved into the government’s lap with the New Year scarcely begun—and others may be on the way.

Labor unions on a half dozen fronts are hitting out for new wage increases and other benefits. And officials are hard pressed to settle these demands without strikes and without busting the anti-inflation program wide open.

Contract Expires

John L. Lewis, boss of the coal miners union, is on the verge of making new contract demands on the mine owners. His two year contract expires at the end of March and, beginning next Thursday, he can demand negotiations.

Some observers think that Lewis may delay a move for more pay, and possibly greater welfare money for miners. Right now, he is busy trying to get Congress to enact tighter mine safety laws.

Lewis is due to testify tomorrow on this point before a Senate labor subcommittee.

Murray Seeks Raise

Lewis also might want to wait and see what his rival, CIO President Philip Murray, gets in the current steel industry wage case before making his own move.

Murray’s demands for an 18½ cent average pay boost for steel workers are before a panel of the Wage Stabilization Board for a recommended compromise. The panel is to resume hearings in New York City Friday after a three week recess. Eventually the case will go to the WSB itself for final decision.

Airliner Drops; 30 Shaken Up

CLEVELAND—(AP)—Thirty passengers on a Capital Airlines coach plane were tossed about like peas in a pod and five injured today when a sudden downdraft caused the ship to drop 2,200 feet before leveling off.

The five were taken to nearby Berea Community Hospital after pilot William Mason of Washington radioed for a doctor and an ambulance to meet the plane on its arrival at Cleveland Hopkins municipal airport.

One person was released after treatment and none of the others was believed injured seriously.

The plane, flight 805 from Washington to Chicago via Pittsburgh and Cleveland, was flying near East Liverpool, O., at 6,000 feet when the accident happened.

Normally, if the pilot expects rough flying, the passengers are instructed to fasten their safety belts so they will be kept pinned to their seats.

In this case rough weather apparently had not been expected and the passengers did not have the belts fastened.

Key Man In Congress Against Another Term For President Truman

By MARVIN L. ARROWSMITH
WASHINGTON—(AP)—Senator Maybank (D-S. C.), a key man in Congress on many administration measures, said today he is against another term for President Truman.

And Maybank, Democratic national committeeman from South Carolina, predicted “most of the South” will unite behind Senator Russell of Georgia for the party’s presidential nomination.

“As far as I am concerned, I am for Dick Russell first, last and all the way,” Maybank told a reporter.

White House Silent

He has said that much before. But he added this is the first time—1948 included—he publicly has voiced opposition to nominating Mr. Truman.

The president hasn’t disclosed whether he will run again. Over the weekend, Democratic leaders from 13 midwestern states adopted a resolution calling on the President to be a candidate. They also endorsed Vice President Barkley for another term.

Maybank is chairman of the Senate Banking Committee, which passes on economic controls legislation, defense production measures and other important bills. The committee also recommends Senate approval or rejection of the men Mr. Truman nominates for many top posts.

Maybank has supported a good many administration programs which came to his committee, but he has opposed some too. Outside the committee’s sphere, he—like virtually all southern lawmakers—has fought the President’s controversial civil rights program.

Committee Ignored

While the senator declined to say just why he is against nominating Mr. Truman again, it is known that his opposition is not based solely on the civil rights issue.

Of late, Maybank has complained openly that his banking committee has not been consulted by the White House in advance of important nominations by the President.

The most recent instance was the proposed appointment of Harry McDonald to head the much-investigated Reconstruction Finance Corporation. Last Friday the committee refused to approve McDonald for the assignment pending further study of the matter, and Maybank so advised the President. Mr. Truman replied, Maybank said, that he would not withdraw the nomination.

Solution Of Prisoner Exchange Drafted To Speed Korean Truce

By ROBERT B. TUCKMAN
MUNSAN, Korea—(AP)—A detailed working draft of a 14-point U. N. plan for exchanging prisoners of war in Korea was handed Communist truce negotiators today.

The Reds promised to study the proposal.

The prisoner exchange plan incorporates all basic points of the Allied proposal submitted Jan. 8, including voluntary repatriation which the Reds have said they never will accept.

Accused of Blackmail
It is a companion piece to the detailed draft on truce supervision given the Communists Sunday.

Staff officers were scheduled to start work on the Allied draft Monday, but the Communists asked for an got a 24-hour postponement. The truce supervision subcommittee is in recess while the staff officers attempt to reach agreement.

Rear Adm. R. E. Libby presented North Korean Maj. Gen. Lee Sang Cho a revised roster of 132,000 Communist prisoners of war held by the U. N., listing names in Chinese and North Korean. He said the Allies also were ready to exchange information on allegedly missing prisoners.

Lee thanked Libby for the data but accused the Allies of attempting blackmail because they held

Suspicious Wife Solves Murder

LOS ANGELES—(AP)—A bride of a week who says her husband’s lies about another woman made her suspect he was a murderer got the credit from police today for cracking a month-old strangulation killing.

Officers said Robert L. Pennington Jr., 31-year-old machinist, admitted yesterday slaying his former common law wife, Mrs. Helen Beitz, 31, in a jealous rage last Dec. 7 or 8.

He then led a party of police to a shallow grave in a flood-washed ditch where the body was recovered. Later he was booked on suspicion of murder and jailed.

Pennington’s bride, the former Mrs. Barbara Eras, 29, said her suspicions were aroused last week when she caught him in lies.

She said he told her Mrs. Beitz was his wife and she died three months ago of a stroke after unavailing efforts by firemen to revive her. For “no logical reason,” she became afraid and called the fire department to check. There was no record of the case.

Neighbors told her, she said, that Pennington told them Mrs. Beitz had gone to Oklahoma City to visit her two children, who live there with her husband, Elmer Beitz.

When she confronted Pennington with this, he admitted Mrs. Beitz was not his wife but insisted she had gone to Oklahoma, she said.

FLAPPER DIES, OVER 80—

Actress Fannie Ward, above, who sought “eternal youth” and looked like a flapper even in old age, died yesterday at Lenox Hill hospital in New York. She admitted to being 79 years old, but friends said she was in her 80s. One said 83. The “eternal soubrette” made a glamorous career of seeking the fountain of youth, and said she found it in a secret facial treatment learned from French stage star Gaby Deslys. Her efforts to stay young—she permitted her to play a 14-year-old girl when she was at least 40—made her an international celebrity for more than half a century. Miss Ward, always trim and pretty, began her career in 1890.

Cairo Regime Ousted After Orgy Of Riots

Dispute With Britain May Be Settled

CAIRO, Egypt—(AP)—The Chamber of Deputies tonight approved martial law in all Egypt for a period of two months.

By FRED J. ZUSY

CAIRO—(AP)—A new government was sworn into office today in a shift directed by King Farouk and viewed by some western observers as a step which might ease the bloody and violent dispute between Britain and Egypt.

The new prime minister, “Strong Man” Aly Maher Pasha, and his cabinet took the oath at Abdin palace, where they were received by the king. A later announcement said the new government would read to parliament tonight decrees issued under martial law.

Resolution Squelched
Farouk last night turned Mustapha El Nahas Pasha’s Wafdist party regime out of office after the Nahas government’s Nationalist campaign to drive the British out of the Suez Canal zone and the Sudan culminated in a wild eruption of bloodshed and burning Saturday. The Nahas government termed the outbreak an attempted revolution.

The new premier in a radio address to the nation pledged himself to fulfill the “independent unity of the Nile valley”—to get the British out—and to maintain “stability, security and peace.”

Miner Is Killed At Iron River

(By The Associated Press)
Eight persons—one a mine mechanic who fell 100 feet down a mine shaft—came to violent death in Michigan over the weekend.

Seven were killed in automobile traffic. Among them was a bridesmaid.

Victim of the mine accident Sunday was Leo J. Smith, 50-year-old maintenance mechanic. He was making repairs on a large bucket used for hauling ore when suddenly it turned over and dumped him to the bottom of the shaft, 1,100 feet down.

The accident, at the Wausau iron mine near Iron River, was witnessed by four of Smith’s fellow workers. Smith, who leaves a widow and four daughters, was president of Hanna Local 1624 of the United Steel Workers.

The traffic victims included a 21-year-old bridesmaid who was killed Saturday on her way to a wedding reception at Alpena. The other occupants of the car were injured, one critically.

Property Values Hold Up Well Here In 1951

There was no noticeable decline in real property values in Escanaba last year and the number of property transfers for Delta county indicate a healthy real estate condition.

During 1951 a total 1,504 deeds were recorded at the register of deeds office in the court house, with summer and fall months the heaviest in property transfers, according to Mary Constantineau, county clerk and register of deeds.

In Escanaba city 101 permit permits were issued for construction totaling an estimated $1,171,950. The value of construction was considerably higher than in 1950.

Need More Small Home

The demand for property continued high, but the total number of new home units constructed declined in 1951 in Escanaba.

Higher construction costs, reflected in the declining value of the dollar, was held responsible in some quarters for the reduced number of dwelling units built in 1951. Real property values therefore were held to be going upward, rather than downward, on the newer building.

The number of new dwellings declined from 44 in 1950 to 32 in 1951 in Escanaba, and realtors interpreted this as a growing trend away from purchases of older, bigger homes.

The need is for smaller, more modern homes to meet today's family. The larger, older house has declined in value—at least they are not moving on the market as they did a few years ago, they reported.

Interest In Building

New home construction in Escanaba this past year followed an established pattern of movement toward the southwest section of the city.

Persons close to the real estate picture said more people are now interested in building new homes in new platted additions, where lots are larger and there is space for the sprawling or ranch type dwelling. This trend is reflected in the higher values placed on lots in "new" residential areas now being opened.

Industrial building continues with the city of Escanaba adding to the total with a new propane gas plant and a new water treatment plant. Further expansion by one of the larger industries in the city is contemplated this year.

Healthy Condition

While the total number of building permits in the city declined from 144 to 101, the estimated value of new construction as reported by the applicants increased from $878,330 to $1,117,950.

Generally the number of building permits, transfers of property, and the values established thereby indicated a healthy maintenance of real estate values and growth in new property.

Colorado Man Repeats Funeral

BURLINGTON, Colo. — (P) — Jim Bernhart is planning a repeat performance of his own "funeral."

"Ain't got my plans all made yet," he told newsmen today, "but there'll be something this year."

Jim, who is approaching his 75th birthday, presided at his own "funeral" in June, 1951. It cost him an estimated $15,000 which included a $4,000 copper coffin, $2,500 granite monument and incidentals.

Jim, a retired farmer, ran into mild opposition from some of the Burlington townspeople soon after announcing plans for last year's proceedings, which he undertook, he said, partly to make sure he wasn't "buried like a dog," and partly to spend some of his estimated $75,000 fortune before his death "so that relatives won't get it."

But if his neighbors were opposed to the funeral, they didn't show it when the big day came. Almost to a man Burlington turned out for the services, rubbing shoulders with curious visitors from half a dozen states.

A huge dinner, which Jim cooked himself, followed.

Glove Company Reopening Here

The Escanaba Glove Company will begin operation again this week after a two-month layoff caused by a seasonal lag in demand.

Coming back to work at the company plant in the Coliseum will be about 50 employees who are now being contacted, it was reported by Plant Superintendent Arthur Kaunick.

Orders for the spring line of ladies fabric gloves began coming in to the company a short while ago bringing about the necessity of resumption of operations.

The glove company has been operating in Escanaba since 1947 and at the time of its closing in November due to lack of orders, about 50 women were employed at the plant.

Fruitport Boy Best Cherry Pie Maker
MUSKEGON, Mich.—(AP)—Who said girls were the best pie bakers?

Well, they aren't in Muskegon country—not if the judges in Saturday's cherry pie contest were right.

A 16-year-old boy, Roy Forward of Fruitport, won first prize. But Roy will not be going to the state contest in Grand Rapids this week. Only girls compete there, so Muskegon county's second best pie-baker will go. She is Goldie Lane of Ravenna.

Shakeup In Revenue Bureau Takes Top Billing In Congress

By WILLIAM F. ARBOGAST
WASHINGTON—(AP)—President Truman's plan to reorganize the scandal-shaken Internal Revenue Bureau took top billing today in what otherwise promises to be a dull week in Congress.

The Revenue Bureau shakeup plan is due to come before the House Wednesday or Thursday with approval presaged by the unanimous backing of the House expenditures committee.

Unless blocked by the Senate, the reorganization will become effective after March 14—60 days from the date the President submitted it to Congress.

Either branch of Congress can kill it by adopting a resolution of disapproval before that date. It is on a disapproval resolution that the House will vote, and probably reject.

The reorganization plan contemplates abolition of the present 64 jobs of collectors of internal revenue, who are Presidential appointees and some of whose actions have embarrassed the administration.

Taking over the field work of collecting taxes would be 25 district commissioners subject to civil service regulations and removable only for cause. Under them would be deputies also appointed through civil service procedure. The underlying idea is to take tax collection out of politics.

The House has no other major legislation before it this week, but its Armed Services Committee may give final approval to a modified Universal Military Training bill, and its Appropriations Committee is whipping up several budget bills.

The only controversial business before the Senate is a bill to knock from the 1951 Defense Production Act a tight curb on importation of fats, oils and dairy products. A vote is set for Tuesday, with House action to follow.

Thus far, with almost one month of the 1952 session gone, only two bills have been passed, one in the Senate and one in the House.

Australian Opposed To American Loan

SYDNEY—(AP)—Premier John McDonald, of Victoria Province, Australia, advocates that some of the $1,568,000,000 of Australian money in London be spent before money is borrowed from the U. S.

Some officials here have suggested that an American loan might be sought to help pay for the country's development program and to combat inflation.

McDonald, however, is strongly of the opinion that Australian credits in London could be used to help development work in Australia. If necessary, he says, dollars now used for luxury purchases should be diverted to more useful projects.

Organizing Local Humane Society Is Important Need In Escanaba

THROUGH the influence of anti-cruelty leagues and humane societies the people of the civilized world are providing more civilized care for the so-called dumb animals that man keeps as pets or as beasts of burden.

The current interest in establishment of a local humane society is inspired by the story of an Escanaba woman, who for the past six years has served as her time permitted in finding homes for neglected dogs. As a member of state and national humane organization she is the lone local representative of a movement that began more than a century ago.

First step in the enactment of humane legislation was taken in 1822 in Great Britain. In that year the owner of a donkey was convicted for mercilessly beating the animal. To assist in gaining convictions against violators of the humane laws, the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals was organized.

The American Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals was organized in New York in 1866. It achieved almost immediate support when it brought about legislation that halted the keeping of ill-housed and diseased cattle from which milk was taken and sold to the public.

As in all of the laws dealing with more humane care of animals, there is distinct public benefit. Requiring owners of dogs to immunize their pets against rabies not only protects the animal but safeguards humans as well. This relationship was noted in an earlier day by organizations known as Societies for the Prevention of Cruelty to Children and Animals.

Today's children are seldom victims of neglect and cruelty, but the thoughtless dog owner must be impressed with his responsibility to properly care for and protect his pet.

Adequate legislation is now supplied for this purpose, but what is needed is the human interest and inclination to see that justice is given defenseless animals.

A Story We Should Read With Shame

A dispatch from Tokyo by Edward Kennedy, Scripps-Howard correspondent, sets down a story that ought to be read with shame throughout this country.

It tells how a private, wounded on patrol, was brought to a forward hospital in Korea with one leg nearly shot off, his other foot shattered and an arm broken. He needed blood badly. But there wasn't any, because the civilian blood line from the home front had failed.

So four fighting soldiers from the front lines, who might themselves be struck down at any time by enemy fire, had to be pulled back to the hospital tent to give their blood in hope of saving their comrade.

Thirteen others from the wounded man's front-line regiment also gave their blood.

When the soldiers had each given a pint, they returned to their foxholes and bunkers. As Kennedy put it:

"In the States you get coffee and cookies after you give a pint of blood. These men got a Chinese Communist attack for breakfast, and they got shot at for lunch."

The wounded man's life was saved, though he lost a leg. And he's grateful that his buddies could be spared from the fighting front at the critical moment.

What this story tells about our performance on the home front could consume the space of several editorials. But is any comment really necessary?

Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON—President Truman held two quiet talks recently which make it appear that he personally is directing the Democratic "Stop-Kefauver" campaign.

Talk No. 1 was with astute Sen. Brian McMahon of Connecticut, following which McMahon, looking like the cat that swallowed the canary, walked out of the White House and filed for the presidency in Illinois.

It happens that Illinois is a long way from Connecticut and that McMahon is a Catholic. And since never before in American history has a Catholic been elected president, and since McMahon has never even dreamed of running for the presidency it's obvious that the Illinois primary campaign is part of the carefully laid plot to "Stop-Kefauver."

Talk No. 2 occurred two days after McMahon announced, and was between the President and the governor of Illinois, able Adlai Stevenson, grandson of the Democratic vice president under Grover Cleveland, former assistant to Secretary of the Navy Frank Knox and such a fair-minded governor that many Republicans have voted for him.

Most of the Stevenson-Truman conversation was about safety laws for coal mines in Illinois where two terrible tragedies have occurred. However, friends indicate that politics was also broached by the President and that while Governor Stevenson is not at all anxious to get into the presidential race, Mr. Truman is equally anxious to get him in—either as part of the "Stop-Kefauver" campaign or as the favored choice of the Truman administration.

KEFAUVER'S HURDLES

All of which will make Illinois perhaps the most interesting political testing ground in the nation when the primary takes place there April 8.

Here is what Kefauver will be up against:

1. He will be opposed by an old classmate at Yale, Senator McMahon, who has voted with Kefauver on almost every issue in support of the Fair Deal. Their records are as alike as two peas in a pod. However, McMahon will have the political advantage of making hay with the heavy Catholic vote in Chicago.

2. He will be opposed by the regular Democratic machine in Cook county which hates him for having started the Kefauver crime probe, which in turn led to the machine's defeat in 1950. Every bookmaker, every member of the underworld will be an eager-beaver worker and money-raiser to defeat the man who defeated them.

3. He will be opposed by Scott Lucas, the ex-senator from Illinois, who has a long and vengeful memory, and still has blood in his eye because of Kefauver's refusal to hold up the crime probe in Illinois. Lucas attributes his defeat to the unpleasant disclosures of that probe.

On the other hand, Kefauver will be up against a somewhat embarrassing factor for any Southern candidate — the Negro vote. Actually, the Tennessee senator has an almost perfect score on civil rights. Though it meant the loss of votes at home for him to do so, he supported Truman on civil rights, refused to join Southern filibusters. Therefore, the Negro vote should be with him.

But the mere bringing out of his record on this delicate subject will hurt Kefauver in the South where he must get a large block of delegates to win at convention time.

Irony is that the Trumanites now so frantically pulling wires to block Estes Kefauver don't seem to realize that the one Democrat who can remove the curse of corruption from the Democratic party is the man they are trying to defeat—Estes Kefauver.

TAFT ON MCCARTHY

Senator Taft has now ringed the circle on McCarthyism. Here is his complete public record:

On March 23, 1950, Taft admitted to the New York Times, Herald Tribune, Baltimore Sun and Associated Press that he had publicly encouraged McCarthy, had even arranged a meeting between the Wisconsin senator and a possible informant; had urged McCarthy "if one case didn't work out to bring up another."

On Aug. 21, 1951, Taft began pulling in his horns. He told a Portland, Me., audience that "the Republicans haven't endorsed McCarthy's charges—except those they agree with."

One month later, Taft backed away even further. He told Spencer R. McCall of the St. Louis Post-Dispatch that McCarthy's methods were "perfectly reckless" and the content of his charges "bunk."

On Oct. 22, 1951, Taft told the press that McCarthy had "overstated" his charges, and added: "The strength of Communists in government apparently reached a peak at Yalta and is now declining."

By Nov. 8, 1951, McCarthy had begun pressuring Taft to reverse himself. On that date, he announced that the Ohioan would support McCarthy for re-election.

Finally, on Jan. 21, 1952, Taft completed the full cycle and issued his statement that McCarthy's charges had been "fully justified."

U. S. Of Europe Idea Not New, Even With Gen. Ike

By JAMES MARLOW

WASHINGTON—(AP)—General Eisenhower's proposal that the nations of Europe unite is not new, even with Eisenhower.

The idea of European unity—one government, a kind of United States of Europe—has quite a history. It's gathered more steam in the past few years than ever before.

In 1930 the French proposed a European Federal Union. In 1940, when France was falling to the Nazis, Winston Churchill offered the French union and common citizenship with Britain. Again nothing happened.

U. S. Of Europe

When the war ended a number of groups organized to push the unity idea, through federation or in some other way.

Churchill formed a United Europe committee in January, 1947; in March of that year the Independent League of European Federalists was created; this was followed by the Union of European Federalists in April, 1947; and in September, 1947 Count Richard Coudenhove Kalergi started the European Parliamentary Union.

In the midst of this—in March, 1947—the U. S. Senate approved a resolution offered by Senator Fulbright, Arkansas Democrat: "Congress favors the creation of a United States of Europe within the framework of the United Nations."

In December, 1947, the various groups mentioned above got together as "the International Committee for the coordination of movements for European Unity."

Council Set Up

At that time the countries of Western Europe were getting together in the economic field to decide what help they needed from the Marshall Plan.

In May, 1948 the "International Committee for coordination" had its first conference and agreed there should be a European assembly. In August, 1948, it urged Britain, France, Belgium, the Netherlands and Luxembourg to take the lead in creating such an assembly.

The five nations set up a committee to work on the idea. It came up with this: A Council of Europe, which works like this:

A committee of the foreign ministers of each member's country, meeting in secret; and a consultative assembly to which the member nations send delegates who meet in public.

North Atlantic Pact

This Council met first on Aug. 1, 1949 and has met a number of times since. Even so, the Council as it stands has no real power. No member nation has to follow the assembly's recommendations.

Still, the assembly is a place where the delegates can represent public opinion in Europe. There have been various economic agreements between the nations of Europe. The biggest single step they've taken has been the creation of the North Atlantic Pact, of which this country and Canada are part. This is a military alliance. The members are pledged to help one another.

One More Step

This is still a long way from a United States of Europe and it seems pretty clear that Churchill doesn't want to put Britain into a United States of Europe.

Eisenhower says he can understand this in Churchill since Britain has so many connections overseas with the other members of the British commonwealth.

But Europe is in bad economic shape, so bad that this country has to act as its crutch. Eisenhower not only suggests real economic unity, so all the nations of Europe will benefit, but political as well.

Since they are moving toward military unity, if they took the next steps to economic and political unity they'd have a European federation or United States of Europe.

Delay In Justice Court

Dear Editor:

Several years ago I was involved in a case about a small sum of money which was brought to our local justice court. Being unfamiliar with the machinations and petty legal manipulations involved and as the sum of money was small I did not apply for the services of an attorney but decided to state my case and leave it to the decision of the judge. I had done this in other counties in the Upper Peninsula before and never seemed to have any trouble. The defendant in this case had been involved with the law here before and evidently knew just what to do. He employed an attorney who also knew just what to do.

The case was tried. Both sides presented their arguments, but to this day I have never been able to find out what the decision was. The attorney merely asked for time to present a brief before a decision was reached. It was granted and as far as I know the brief was never presented. On each of at least six trips up to the office of the Justice of the Peace I was told that the attorney had not as yet presented his brief although the last occasion was weeks after the date that the law had set as a deadline. Continuous delay is the game at the expense of justice.

I have since read the Press communications of another individual who was involved in an automobile accident with a man who was freed by fancy legal footwork in our local justice court. This man was the cause of the death of a girl in Spalding in another traffic accident. I have talked with many more people who have felt the sting of this ridiculous flaunting of justice in our local lower court.

A municipal court would give the citizen his day in court under competent judgeship, but the Delta County Bar Association does not recommend it. So it is shelved by the City Council. It would be interesting to know the reasons for the attitude of the Delta County Bar Association on the issue of a municipal court in Escanaba. None was stated in the paper. Could it be that they are in favor of delays in "Justice" court?

MEETING THE CHALLENGE — The American male is beginning to cast off the binding fetters of servitude to clothing that has imprisoned his neck and arms for the past several hundred years. He is coming out in the open, but not with the abandon of a plunging neckline.

A glance around the office reveals the men are revealing more of their manly beauty. Two have their ties off and their collars unbuttoned, four have their sleeves rolled back—but the ties are still looped around their necks.

The average man wears between 10 and 15 pounds of clothing, most of it folded, tucked, faced, laced and braced to give him the appearance of a cardboard box.

The challenge everywhere is for the individual to assert his inclination toward freedom. The American male is slowly but surely throwing off the shackles of conformity in dress.

NEVER NOTEWORTHY—Seldom—even if attired in the height of fashion—do men attain much distinction in dress. They look like so many peas in a pod.

Clothing stylists for men have in recent years tried to overcome this sameness of dress with remarkably small success. Men stick to the old familiar suits, shoes and shirts because they fear they will appear conspicuous.

Only the hardy and courageous male breaks out in a rash of polka-dot sport shirts. The medium daring ones will risk a bright tie, while the ultra-conservative would as soon be caught in a den of vice as surrounded by some of the gaudy habiliments displayed in the smart wear ads.

SLOW PROCESS—The small but noteworthy changes in men's dress are the result of a long process of evolution in male habits.

Men no longer feel that it is the height of fashion to deck themselves out in their best finery for everyday wear. The trend of the times is also toward more informal and casual entertaining. Perhaps the ranch style house is responsible. Big, formal dining rooms are passe in most homes.

Along with the more casual attitude toward social affairs comes a normal male desire for comfort, at least in his own home. For this reason he wears sports clothes the clock around unless his wife forces him into white shirt and tie and dark coat.

THE HATTER'S PROBLEM—A fedora in the wind of male sentiment toward formal clothing is the report of the hat industry that men are not wearing toppers the way they should.

Fact is, many men refuse to wear a hat at any time. This is considered disgraceful by the hat manufacturers, who say that no man can be well dressed unless his head is covered.

And if men do wear hats, then the manufacturers say they should have more than one. They should have several to match their social obligations, such as a pearl-gray for afternoon, a tan for mornings, and a black or dark gray for evenings.

This will leave the college crowd strictly cold. They were born hatless, they still have hair, and no doubt they will not put a covering on their domes until the hair is at the vanishing point.

THE IN-BETWEEN STAGE—Most men steer neither to the conservative right nor the liberal left in wearing apparel.

They go right down the middle, being daring on occasion, and conservative when necessary. They most of all do not want to dress so they stand out in a crowd.

It is encouraging, therefore, to note the rolled sleeve, the tieless shirt, and the propensity for hatlessness. Men are being brave in a limited way.

Perhaps the time may come when they will wear shorts to work and trim their salmon-colored chemise with embroidered roses, but we doubt it. They will still want to wear clothing that makes them fade into the woodwork. Men's taste in suits fit them for a supporting role—in the woman do the starring with bright colors and startling styles.

Power With Words

By Dr. C. E. Funk

"THE LATE JOHN JONES" — "How long after a person has died," asks Mrs. W. M. O. of Topeka, "is it proper to continue to refer to him as 'the late'?" That is, "the late John Jones?"

Dictionaries are not much help in answering that question. They content themselves by saying that "late" in this sense means "recently deceased." But "recent" has no time limit, and neither has "late." Both are elastic and can be stretched more or less indefinitely.

Nevertheless, since this is a practical problem and one that affects social conventions as well as word meanings, I put the question to my good friend, Mrs. Emily Post.

In the resulting interchange of views we agreed that reference to "the late John Jones" should, in general, be discontinued after six months or a year. But we also agreed that under certain conditions the usage might justifiably continue over a much longer period.

Five years or so, for example, after the death of a scholar, it would be fitting for one taking up the same line of writing to refer to the earlier one as "the late Robert Smith," so that the reader would know that Smith was no longer alive. And a widow could properly say, "as my late husband once remarked," when speaking with someone unaware of his death, even though her husband had died many years before. In wedding announcements, a bride might appear as "Cicely Jones, daughter of Mrs. George Smith and the late John Jones," no matter how long Mr. Jones had been dead.

And, although Franklin D. Roosevelt died in 1945, he will be properly referred to as "our late President," or "the late President Roosevelt," as long as his immediate successor remains in office.

A Massachusetts man, sentenced to polish fire trucks for a month, is a shining example of what might happen when you turn in a false alarm.

LITTLE TROUBLES

I am sometimes called upon to wipe away a little tear, and to reassure my daughter that the cloudy skies will clear. And it's then I think we parents do not take the time we should, to give ear to youthful woes which should be fully understood. For in looking back to boyhood, which I long since left behind, I recall how little troubles loomed so massive in my mind.

So I think a tearful child who climbs upon a parent's knee, for a bit of reassurance which can come from you and one, needs a gentle hand, a willing ear, to heal most any hurt, and I think that many tragedies we thus can help avert. And a little kiss to seal our love disperses a lot of doubt, if we take the time to understand a troubled little sprout.

The Doctor Says... Victims of Angina Pectoris Now Have Brighter Outlook

BY EDWIN P. JORDAN, M. D. — Written for NEA Service

(Last of a series on heart disease.)

As more and more people live into late middle years and old age, a condition known as angina pectoris becomes more common.

The meaning of this medical term is simply pain in the chest, but it is caused by an insufficient amount of blood flowing to the heart muscle, usually as a result of hardening of the arteries. These blood vessels are called the coronary arteries.

When the passageway through these arteries has been seriously narrowed and not enough blood passes through them, the needs of the heart muscle are not satisfied and it is this blood lack which causes pain.

The pain is usually absent when the patient is resting. It is likely to be noticed the first time when the heart is pumping rapidly as happens when exercising (climbing stairs or running for the bus, for example).

During such periods of extra work, the heart needs larger quantities of blood than it does when at rest. A person who has angina pectoris must, therefore, learn how much exercise can be taken without producing symptoms.

Besides the pain, the symptoms often include a feeling of anxiety, shortness of breath, and cold clammy sweating.

OUTLOOK NOT UNFAVORABLE

Many patients with angina, when they learn how to live with their hearts, have little or no discomfort and are not cut off from most of life's pleasures.

Indeed, the outlook for patients with angina is not so unfavorable as was formerly believed. Some live for more than twenty-five years after the onset of their first symptoms, and the average is probably between eight and ten years.

In addition to the better outlook which is now recognized, the management of angina pectoris has also improved. The amount and nature of exercise which can be tolerated can be more closely calculated.

Also, there are several drugs, which when given properly, usually help the victim of angina even though drugs do not cure the underlying cause which lies in the coronary arteries.

The symptoms of angina certainly cannot be ignored, but when they do develop, it does not mean that life is almost over, or that all pleasures are done with forever. A sensible but hopeful attitude is indicated.

Writers To Pick Top 1951 Movies

HOLLYWOOD — (AP) — The writers who cover the film capital for foreign newspapers are staging a world film festival this weekend and hope it will come to rival such festivals as those in Venice and Uruguay.

Awards will be presented to those films which the Hollywood foreign correspondents believe best present the most international significance.

Early balloting indicates that "Place in the Sun" may capture the human interest award with close competition from "The Blue Veil" and "Death of a Salesman."

In the best international musical class, Metro-Goldwyn Mayer can't lose. Balloting is running "American in Paris," "Great Caruso" and "Showboat" in that order.

"Bright Victory" and "Fathers Little Dividend" are close contenders in the race for the film that best sells the American way of life abroad.

"Decision Before Dawn" looks good to win as the film that contributes most to ideal unity in the Democratic world. "I was a Communist for the FBI" and "Go for Broke" also are in contention.

Over One-Third Of U. S. Now Veterans Families, Figures Of VA Reveal

By W. JOLNES MACFARLAN

WASHINGTON — (AP) — The Veterans Administration figures that one-third of the nation's population consists of veterans and their families. It estimates the figure will increase to 40 per cent by 1955.

This new statistical compilation made public this week is based on data up to last Nov. 30.

It showed there are now 18,893,000 living veterans of all U. S. wars, not including the Korean campaign. This means two out of every five men are war veterans.

Books Closed On 1812
There are now about 3,418,000 veterans of World War I and 15,310,000 of World War II. Other veterans' records stretch back to the Civil War. The books were closed on the War of 1812 in 1946 when the last dependent died. The last veteran of the Mexican War died in 1929 at the age of 98.

The VA figures that one out of every ten persons in the country is a veteran of World War II. This includes roughly two out of every three men between the age of 20 and 35.

Other figures show that four of every five veterans are married and that two out of three live in cities.

The VA estimates that in the year 2000 living veterans of World War II will number about 4,618,000, that the average will be 77.

"This," the VA comments, "suggests that medical and domiciliary care of World War II veterans in the year 2000 will be more extensive than it is for World War I veterans today."

Smiths Top List
The VA placed the average age of World War I veterans today at 58.

The job of keeping track of veterans and their families requires the VA to maintain some 13 million administrative records. This does not include insurance records which total over 100 million.

A total of 25,030,000 persons have served in the armed forces in wars since the American Revolution.

The master file of names includes 325,000 Smiths, 12,500 of them named John; 100,000 Browns, 6,700 named John; 200,000 Johnsons, 7,900 named William; 175,000 Jones, 2,300 named John and 3,500 named William; 37,300 Adams, 170 named John Quincy.

And there are 100 Eisenhowers and 20 George C. Marshalls.

VA receives about 210 million pieces of mail a year, about the amount of outgoing mail normally handled in a year in Baltimore or Kansas City. One letter out of 10 is classed as mystery mail, meaning some detective work must be done to identify the writer and associate him with his records.

Pension Roster Grows
There are 105,000 patients hospitalized by the VA, with 54,000 of them neuropsychiatric patients and 15,500 tuberculosis patients.

More than half of the World War Two veterans—7,500,000—have received some training under the GI Bill and the Vocational Rehabilitation Act. On Nov. 30 about 1,400,000 were still receiving some form of training.

VA in November was paying monthly compensation and pen-

Pilot Catches Up With Runaway Plane Circling On Water

SEATTLE—(AP)—Howard Bothell rode a bucking outboard skiff to recapture his runaway amphibian plane.

Bothell, Auburn, Wash., auto dealer and pilot was thrown through the windshield of the plane when a wing tip float collapsed while he was practice landing on Puget Sound.

He was in the water half an hour while the aircraft, engine still roaring, cut capers around him in 200-foot circles.

The crews of four Coast Guard picket boats sent to the scene surveyed the situation and said they'd wait until the plane ran out of gas before attempting to board it. But Bothell, pulled from the water by an unidentified man, decided not to wait.

He set out in an outboard skiff with William A. McClure, another pilot, and Joe Ables, who lives nearby. Bothell was put aboard one wing tip but, burdened by clothing and a life jacket, was unable to climb to the cockpit.

So McClure and Ables took him off again. Then both Bothell and McClure climbed aboard the fuselage and Bothell throttled down the engine. Together they managed to bring the plane ashore.

Weather Halts Korean Fighting

SEOUL, Korea — (AP) — The Korean war was weathered in today.

A thick overcast grounded Allied warplanes. Snow flurries shrouded the frozen, 145-mile battlefield. Only light patrol contact was reported.

It was quiet like that on the central front northeast of Kumsong last night. Abruptly the stillness was shattered by Communist propaganda loudspeakers blaring out in celebration of the Chinese Lunar New Year—the year of the dragon.

Allied artillery roared at the loudspeakers—and it was quiet again.

Earlier Sunday an Allied tank-infantry patrol punched into Chinese positions near Kumsong, on the east-central, but withdrew after a three-hour scrap. The Allied and Communist infantrymen fought at hand grenade range.

Three minor Communist patrol jobs on the eastern front were repulsed.

Cargo Plane Blast Kills 3 Germans

RAUNHEIM, Germany — (AP) — A blazing American "Flying Boxcar"—abandoned by its five crewmen in mid-air—exploded like a bomb in this village today and killed three Germans.

The burning C-82 struck the roof of a small two-family house near the railway station. With a great roar, wreckage scattered for 200 yards and set other dwellings afire.

Seventy-seven-year-old Heinrich Kolb, his 40-year-old daughter Luise and a refugee girl, aged 11, were killed in the demolished house.

The plane was reported flying in a formation of 12 C-82s when it caught fire five miles west of its base at Rhine-Main, near Frankfurt.

Beaten By Robbers, Detroit Worker Dies

DETROIT — (AP) — A factory worker, beaten by thugs who robbed him after he cashed his pay check Thursday night, died yesterday, apparently of his injuries.

Alphonse B. McIntyre, 59, Ford employe and former instructor at Assumption College in Windsor, Ont., was the thugs' victim.

He was struck on the head, knocked down and kicked by three men who robbed him of approximately $100. This included the $87.50 pay check which he had cashed at a bar.

After recovering McIntyre went to a clinic, then home. An autopsy was ordered today to determine the cause of death.

Kinsey Will Extend Sex Study To Japan

TOKYO — (AP) — The Nippon Times said tonight that Dr. Alfred Kinsey is planning to extend his sex studies to Japan.

He expressed his intentions, the paper said, in an exchange of letters with Dr. Sen Nagai, professor emeritus of Tokyo University.

Dr. Kinsey was quoted as writing Nagai he was interested in ascertaining if "the pattern of sexual responses of Japanese females was the same as that of American females."

Fire Damage Heavy At Deadwood, S. D.

DEADWOOD, S. D. — (AP) — Fire that defied efforts to control it swept down Deadwood's main street early today, destroying the city hall, a theater, a radio station and several small businesses.

The fire started in the theater. An estimate of the early damage ranged between $325,000 and $350,000.

Deadwood, famed in pioneer mining days, is in the northern Black Hills. It has a population of slightly more than 3,000.

Rich Rice Harvest Seen In Indochina

SAIGON — (AP) — The information service of America's ECA program in Indochina says a "record" rice crop is being harvested in four areas of North Vietnam.

It reported 700 refugee farmers, cultivating over 200 acres of land near Hanoi, were getting bumper yields because they had used fertilizer supplied by ECA and improved methods of cultivation.

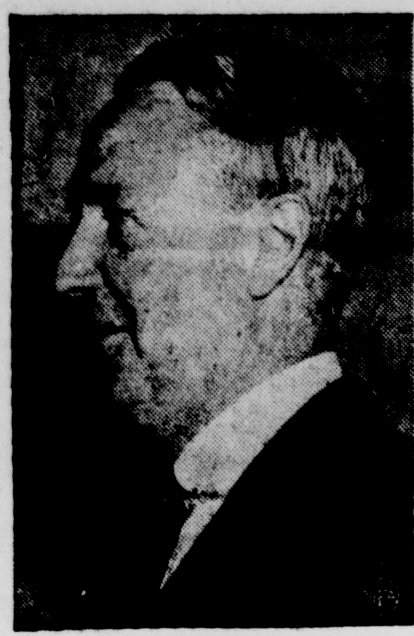

Some farmers said they were getting as much as 3,600 pounds of rice from little more than one acre. Previous yields ran only as high as 2,600 pounds.

Premature Funeral Fails To Come Off

SAIGON, Indochina — (AP) — The newspaper, Le Journal d'Extreme Orient, has just reported a "resurrection" in the all-Chinese town of Cholon.

It said a 70-year-old Vietnamese woman "died" there recently and friends and relatives gathered in a mortuary to recite prayers.

But, added the journal, the woman suddenly raised herself from the funeral couch. As far as is known, she's still living.

ACHESON AIDE — David K. Bruce, above, U. S. ambassador to France, has been named by President Truman to be Secretary of State Acheson's No. 1 deputy. Upon Senate confirmation he will succeed Undersecretary of State James E. Webb, who resigned because he is "very much in need of a rest."

Down-With-Stalin Officers Nabbed In East Germany

BERLIN — (AP) — A Russian underground reported today Soviet secret police swooped down on a Red army officers drinking party in East Germany and arrested more than 50 officers after toasts reached a "down with Stalin" stage.

The "Russian information agency," composed of refugees from the Soviet Union now in West Germany, said the incident happened in Rathenow, 40 miles west of Berlin. The town is heavily populated with Red army units using barracks which once housed Nazi engineer battalions.

The report said the officers gathered in a casino to celebrate the Bolshevik revolution anniversary Nov. 7. After food and drink, shouts of "down with Stalin" were heard. Pistol shots followed and Soviet secret police surrounded the hall. Fifty or more officers were arrested and taken away. Details of the incident leaked to the west recently through a Red army deserter.

Truman Requests Action On Seaway

WASHINGTON — (AP) — President Truman strongly recommended to Congress today that it enact legislation authorizing the St. Lawrence seaway and power project.

"It seems inconceivable to me," the President said in a special message to Congress, "that the Congress should allow any local or special interest to divest our country of its rightful place in the joint development of the St. Lawrence River in the interest of all the people in the United States."

It was the second time in a week that Mr. Truman has urged congressional action on the long-disputed project, which is designed to open the Great Lakes to ocean shipping. He urged in his budget message last week that it be carried through as a "strategic necessity."

Long Transit Strike Ends In Baltimore

BALTIMORE — (AP) — The 18-day-old transit strike was officially over today and busses, streetcars and trackless trolleys were to start rolling again tomorrow morning.

The walkout that had hobbled, but not crippled, this sixth largest city since Jan. 10, ended last night when 3,200 striking drivers voted 2,461 to 100 to accept a three-year contract giving them a total wage increase of 21 cents an hour, plus other benefits.

Negotiators for the union, the Amalgamated Association of Street Electric Railway and Motor Coach Employees, AFL, and the Baltimore Transit Co. reached agreement early Sunday morning after a 10-hour session.

Wall Street

By RICHARD FISKE

NEW YORK — (AP) — The stock market moved higher today with gains of fractions to around a point.

Activity quieted a bit after a brisk start and while many issues slowed in their forward movement they retained their gains.

General Tire and Rubber opened on a block of 6,000 shares and at times advanced as much as 4 3/4. Directors have proposed a two-for-one split of common, a reduction in its par value and placing the stock on a $4 annual basis.

The strength of the market was spread through most major groups. Traders kept an anxious eye on developments in Egypt. Otherwise there was no special news to bring sharp moves in either direction.

Most of the price advances were in fractions but Douglas Aircraft, Pittston Co., and Cities Service all gained around a point at times.

On the bond market corporate issues moved ahead, led by rails. U. S. Governments were steady.

Cairo Government Changed After An Orgy Of Rioting sympathies, but during the war was interned at British insistence because he had talks with Britain's Italian enemies. In recent months, however, his public statements have indicated he advocates a pro-western policy.

London Cautious

Farouk, in his letter dismissing Nafas Pasha and his Wafdist party regime, said Saturday's orgy of rioting, killing, burning and pillaging here "indicated the government over which you preside has not been able to preserve peace and security."

One diplomat termed the shift in the cabinet the most hopeful sign in months.

British sources in London were more cautious, however. Although some said the new premier definitely is pro-British, others termed him "more anti-British than Nafas." These sources said they could not yet regard the change as a move toward a settlement with Britain.

With martial law still in effect throughout Egypt, Cairo continued to count its dead, wounded and damage from Saturday's violence. Police estimated that about 20 persons had been killed and 80 wounded in the outbreak of mobs infuriated at the killing of more than 40 Egyptian auxiliary police in a British siege in Ismailia Friday. The British reckoned their dead, wounded and missing at 15.

Police rounded up ringleaders in the rioting and others suspected of fomenting the violence. A spokesman said 300 had been arrested.

Court Plea Lost By Judith Coplon, Red Spy Plot Girl

WASHINGTON — (AP) — The Supreme Court today refused to review three appeals involving Judith Coplon, former government girl accused of plotting to spy for Russia.

The high tribunal rejected two appeals filed by the justice department and a third request by Miss Coplon that it review parts of a District of Columbia appeals court decision unfavorable to her.

The high court's action was by a vote of 8-0.

Justice Clark, the former attorney general, took no part.

Miss Coplon was arrested almost three years ago after a sensational pursuit by FBI agents through New York streets. She is free under bond.

Wacky Marie Wilson Draws $5,000 For Day With March Of Dimes

HOLLYWOOD — (AP) — Actress Marie Wilson flies to Texas some time this week to put in an eight-hour day as a secretary at the March of Dimes headquarters in Fort Worth. Her pay for the job: $5,000.

It will be the windup of a stunt the wacky blonde of radio and TV staged to help the anti-polio drive.

She offered her services for a day to the highest bidder, with the money to go to the March of Dimes fund. The Coca Cola Bottling Co. of Fort Worth submitted the high bid of $5,000.

There were three bids of $1,000 — from Harry H. Caswell of Springfield, Mass., John C. Edgors of Los Angeles and Station WBIV of Belleville, Ill.

Said Miss Wilson, after learning a Texas City is the winner:

"I'm not sure I can learn to speak the language in just one day, but as long as they talk money, who cares?"

Seattle Skier Killed In Landing Collision With Another Jumper

SEATTLE — (AP) — Skier William Gunderson of Seattle was killed Sunday when he smashed into another jumper as he landed after a 160-foot leap.

Gunderson, 35, winner of last week's Pacific Northwestern Ski Association's jumping tournament, was making a warmup jump at Beaver Lake.

The other jumper, Jack Brewer, 28, of Seattle, was injured critically.

The ski patrol said Brewer was crouched on the narrow landing lane, packing snow kicked up by a previous jumper.

Officials estimated Gunderson's speed at 60 miles an hour when he struck Brewer, who suffered head and internal injuries and multiple fractures.

Solution Of War Prisoner Trade Drafted By Allies

more prisoners than the Reds.

The U. N. exchange plan calls for the creation of two committees to handle details of trading prisoners and civilians.

Job For Red Cross

Three field grade officers from each side, plus a Red Cross representative as technical adviser, would be in charge of exchanging war prisoners. A joint committee of four field grade officers with a Red Cross representative as non-voting chairman would supervise repatriation of civilians.

Both committees would function under the military armistice commission and would make their headquarters at Panmunjom.

Red Cross representatives would interview all prisoners privately to determine whether they want to be repatriated.

The U. N. proposal also provides that the Red Cross be permitted to visit all prison camps immediately after the armistice is signed to distribute relief supplies and conduct interviews.

The last of the 14 Allied points provides that each side supply within 10 days after an armistice is signed the names, nationality, rank and place of death and burial of all prisoners, who died while in captivity.

Libby said the U. N. draft represents a "complete solution" to the prisoner exchange problem.

Two Dead In Fiery Crash Of B-26 Bomber

PORT CHICAGO, Calif. — (AP) — The pilot and a civilian technician died and another man was hurt in Saturday's fiery B-26 crash near the naval ammunition dump here.

McClellan Air Force Base, Sacramento, home field of the two-engine attack bomber, identified the dead as:

Lt. Lewis E. Hudson, 26, Sacramento, the pilot.

Robert Gordon Weems, 33, North Sacramento, an air base employe.

The injured man, treated at Mare Island Navy hospital for bruises after he was thrown from the plane, was Walter F. Hallett, Sacramento, another air base civilian employe.

Evarts Men Messed Up By Train Survive

EVARTS, Mich. — (AP) — Every ache and pain from the bruises on Nelson Burhans, 19, and Mike Hockey, 40, must give them extreme pleasure today—because they can feel them.

Here's what happened to the two Evarts men Saturday:

A train hit their truck at a crossing. Mike jumped and got hit by the engine's cowcatcher. It took rescuers an hour to extricate Nelson from the wreckage, pinned against a grain elevator. An ambulance rushing them to a hospital collided with a car.

Bruises were all they got in either accident.

Thousands Evicted By Flooding Ohio

merchants moved from 22 business houses.

This included 110 families and 10 firms at Brilliant, 48 families and two firms at Empire and Stratton and eight families at Mingo Junction, O.

Across the river at New Cumberland, W. V., 2200 families moved out. Other families evacuated at Wellsburg, W. V.

Next area to retreat before the river was at Wheeling, W. V., and Bridgeport, Martins Ferry, Bellaire and Shadyside, O. This might well be the hardest hit spot along the river.

Rescue agencies estimated a total of 2,000 persons already evacuated in the area, including 109 families at Wheeling and Wheeling Island.

The crest is expected to hit 44.5 feet around noon—probably later—and this left a prospect of two feet of water running over one-fourth of Wheeling, parts of Bellaire and Bridgeport.

The Ohio Valley board of trade said 18,000 persons and 3,300 buildings will be affected by the crest of the flood in Wheeling alone. This means that many buildings will have water in them and that many persons will be evacuated or will live in watery homes.

River-side industry in the area shut down tight, throwing hundreds of workers out of jobs.

Detroit River Burial First In 130 Years

DETROIT — (AP) — The first official Detroit River burial since 1812 was held yesterday to fulfill the deathbed wish of a schoolman who loved the water.

The ashes of Christian T. Anderson, 48-year-old Detroit board of education secretary who died Jan. 9, were committed to the river waters with rites from a United States Coast Guard buoy tender. Standing by was a Detroit police harbormaster tug.

Men of the Detroit power squadron, a private organization which assists the Coast Guard and harbormaster officers, conducted the rites for their fellow member. They said the river burial was the first in 130 years.

Anderson, a Navy lieutenant commander in World War II, asked that his remains be placed in the river he had known since boyhood.

Social Situations

In conversation you want to refer to a business man without using his name.

WRONG: Refer to him as "a certain party."

RIGHT: Say simply "a business man."

You are writing a business letter and want it to sound informal.

WRONG: Use the salutation "My dear Sir."

RIGHT: Use the person's name: "My dear Mr. Smith."

(My dear Sir is not incorrect—but it is the most formal salutation for a business letter.)

Citizen — 'Communist' — Counterspy

American Youth for Democracy Grows Apace, and After 2 Years the Communist Party Gets a New Member

VII I Formally Join the Party

Alice Gordon called me into another luncheon session within a week after the national founding convention. She told me that by the end of October a forming committee—the same old device—would be organized. The task of the organizing committee would be to set up A. Y. D. clubs and branches all over the state.

Our first meeting was held in the former Young Communist League office, already being dismantled, in the Little Building at Tremont and Boylston Sts., Boston. Immediately thereafter, a suitable A. Y. D. headquarters was established in Room 841 of the same building, and the desks and office equipment of the defunct Young Communist League were transferred.

A mimeographed letter was drawn up, proclaiming in brief the objectives of the A. Y. D., and inviting youth leaders from the Boston area to take part in an organizational meeting Nov. 7 to set up the A. Y. D. in the Commonwealth of Massachusetts.

"Every intelligent young American," the letter said, has felt the urgent need for an organization uniting youth of all races, creeds and political beliefs. . . . This war, which now engulfs the whole world, was not of our making, but it is our war. Only by smashing fascism can we assure America's future in a world of peace and progress."

List of Signers

We discussed at length whether to include among the letter's signers the name of Alice Gordon, who was running the show thus far, but who was known publicly as the former head of the Massachusetts Young Communist League. Some argued against her inclusion, but it was finally decided to list her—not as a former League but as a member of the National Council of American Youth for Democracy.

The other signers were: Anne Thompson, of the Young Woman's Christian Association; Ben Parker, of Hecht House; Donald Bollen, United Electrical and Radio Union; Jean Adams, Tufts Theological School; Barbara Bennett, National Council, A. Y. D.; Herbert Philbrick, Baptist Church; Francis Ballin, International Union of Marine and Shipbuilders.

The letter was mailed to a large composite list of youth organization leaders. Nat Mills furnished us the list of the Massachusetts Youth Council. Beverly Franklin secured the entire mailing list of the Youth for Victory Council. Frances Damon provided a list from the Boston Council of Social Agencies. The Communist party headquarters provided additional names from foreign groups. We put in hectic hours addressing the envelopes and getting them into the mail by Oct. 29.

I told about my trip to New York to the founding convention of the A. Y. D. and what I saw and learned, and those whom I met there. Then I said that proletarian elements in the country would do everything they could to break up organizations of this kind—up to and including use of the brand "Communist"—because A. Y. D. was interested only in the successful prosecution of the war, and the fascists and reactionaries were not. Finally I swung into my discussion of anti-Semitism in the Boston community.

The response in behalf of the Massachusetts section of A. Y. D. was remarkable. Youngsters on the "home front," between the ages of fourteen and twenty-five, energetic and enthusiastic to tackle any project for victory, were rounded up. It was easy to join. Any group of ten or more young people could establish an A. Y. D. club in their community for a $1 charter fee. Dues were $1 a year, with a special fee of 50 cents for high school students.

Publish Magazine

A national magazine, "Spotlight," was published for the organization, the first issue to appear in December. The magazine never mentioned the class struggle in so many words, but its pages made it plain to a discerning youngster that the class struggle was a vital factor in his life.

One of our most important tasks was to line up adult sponsors for the Massachusetts A. Y. D., and according to form it was important that most of them be non-Communists. We recognized that any alert, mature person could easily trace the link between American Youth for Democracy and the Young Communist League and we foresaw more serious problems of control.

Some of the adults, I was told, could be depended upon to back the organization and our views—Stephen Fritchman, James J. Green, William Harrison, Elizabeth Jones, Grace Lonergan, Prof. F. O. Matthiessen, Prof. Kirtley Mather, Robert Mills, John Mitchell and Francis O'Connor.

During the next three months we rapidly ran up the membership of A. Y. D. to well over 1,000 in the Boston area alone, and we established many activities, including propaganda drives, canteens and other services among members of the armed forces. Most of the A. Y. D. members were sincerely motivated young people who would have been deeply shocked to know that I, as their state treasurer, and the other officers of the youth organization, continued as usual to attend secret Communist cell meetings in Cambridge and Boston, despite the abolition of the Young Communist League.

For while the League had been eliminated in name, it had long been plain to me and other members of my cell that we were part and parcel of the Communist party, even though we did not hold formal membership. I had been entrusted with regular party tasks in Wakefield. I took orders from party functionaries at District One headquarters in Boston relative to the work of the A. Y. D. I was frequently called to the district office in Room 546 of the Little Building, conveniently located three floors beneath the A. Y. D. office. I was warned not to be too open in these visits, and to make telephone contacts with the headquarters through pay stations rather than through my business telephone.

Met Every Two Weeks

I also warned myself to be careful not to use the same pay booth for consecutive calls to party headquarters and the Federal Bureau of Investigation.

So the cell meetings went on as usual, every two weeks, with no variation in pattern other than shifts in the time and place of meeting. They were secret meetings because they were revolutionary meetings, devoted almost exclusively to the study of the fundamental techniques of violent revolution against capitalism. Over and over again, it was drilled into us that the Communist party is "the leading detachment of the working class, its advanced fortress, its general staff." We studied revolution through the voluminous "History of the Communist Party of the Soviet Union (Bolsheviks)" the "bible" of Communism, edited and authorized by the Central Committee of the Russian Communist party.

I first encountered the "History of the C.P.S.U. (B.)" at a cell meeting at 45 Dana St. in Cambridge, the apartment of Dave Bennett, a propaganda and cultural division expert in the party. The bulky, paper-covered Communist history was placed in my hands for the first time only a few weeks before it was shelved by the party in the complete, though temporary, ascendancy of Browderism. It was at a session with Bennett's class, devoted to "dialectical and historical materialism," the foundation of Bolshevik revolution. This was the course, and this the textbook, that seized upon the dialectics of Marx and Engels to teach that "absolutescent, decadent capitalism" is a step along the way to Socialism and Communism, and further that the development, while inevitable can only be brought to practical fruition by utilizing the "contradictions" of society as the anvil on which to hammer out violent revolution.

Here they tried to make me accept the "inevitability" of the victory of Communism, and I caught an important clue as to why so many young people are lured into Marxist paths. Marxism teaches them to resign themselves to the collective future, to give up the shaping of their own personal destinies and to accept the alleged inflexible laws of class warfare and ultimate victory for the proletariat. They can simply let themselves go and be carried along to a goal they think they cannot escape. For weaklings floundering in a sea of trouble, Marxist-Leninist philosophy appears as a solid rock on which they can gain a footing—oblivious to the fact that the tide ultimately will come in and sweep them away.

Flattery Used, Too

Flattery plays its part. They are told that they represent a special class, a chosen few, the carefully selected vanguard of the masses. They are members of a formation of closed ranks, and they have an illusion of prestige in leadership. But there is more to it than that, and there is no easy single step from the cradle of political education to the grave of Communism. It is a gradual process. One does not simply become a Communist by registering when he achieves voting age, like a Republican or a Democrat. Most of them are lured into the parlor by the spi-derweb of Communist "fronts" spun to catch them. The front is an effective dual-purpose device—it pushes Communist influence outward, and it draws membership in.

Each front group in the network is baited with idealism. It is usually based on a legitimate and sincere motive, one which is compatible with certain facts of Marxism. It may be racial discrimination, as in the Cambridge Communist Committee for Equal Opportunities; the aims of organized labor; job opportunities and training; pacifism, as in the Cambridge Youth Council, or any other worthwhile cause. It may be mild socialism, cultural activity, or a burning political issue of the moment—but always the net is tossed out in perfectly legal waters, and while many fish swim by, a few are snared.

Joins Communist Party

It was two long years from the time I joined the League until I entered the party, and almost as long before I was introduced to the revolutionary conspiracy of the Communist movement.

During our class sessions I made marginal notes of the topic discussed and emphasized in the pages of my "History of the C. P. S. U. (B.)" and turned the copy in to the F. B. I.—little knowing that I would find it again more than five years hence at the end of my long road.

My transition from the Y. C. L. to the party itself was deceptively easy. Evidently my teachers and observers over the years were convinced I was a good pupil, a potential member of the elite. In February of 1944 Alice Gordon first extended me an invitation to join the regular party. She requested that I keep my membership secret, and declared that the party would do the same. I had to stall for time to consult the F. B. I.

Harold Leary fully approved my joining. Eva was willing to go along.

Aluminum Ship Hulls Foreseen

CLEVELAND—(AP)—An aluminum company representative says aluminum-hulled lake freighters could haul 20 per cent more cargo than ships with steel hulls.

And the initial investment might be cheaper, contends David Mac Intyre of the Aluminum Co. of America. His paper on the subject was read here at the annual meeting of the Great Lakes section, society of Naval Architects & Marine Engineers.

Mac Intyre cited this example as possible through use of aluminum:

In a 250-foot ship with a draft of 13 feet and a deadweight capacity of 2,000 tons, a hull weight saving of 375 tons should be possible with welded aluminum construction, with an additional saving of 25 tons for smokestacks and similar equipment.

"A total weight saving of 400 tons or 20 per cent of the original steel-hulled vessel deadweight appears possible to provide the equivalent of one extra voyage out of every five," his paper said.

The extra first cost of aluminum, he went on, "may be offset by reduced power and lower-priced machinery with less fuel consumption in a smaller ship with the same deadweight capacity as a larger one built of steel."

As an alternative, he said, "speed may be increased with the same power in the smaller and lighter hull. It then might be about equal in price to the larger steel hull, with equivalent deadweight capacity."

Agriculture In Alger And Schoolcraft Areas Is Actively Promoted

Agricultural projects in Schoolcraft and Alger counties during 1951 were actively promoted, it is disclosed in a summarized annual report submitted last week to the Board of Supervisors by Clayton D. Reid, county agricultural agent.

Reid also serves as farm agent in Alger county and will make a similar report to the Alger County board.

Highlights taken from his report follows:

Four varieties of oats and four varieties of barley were planted in plots in Schoolcraft County to determine and demonstrate the adaptability of the varieties in local conditions.

Potato production suffered serious setbacks by lack of government support and adverse weather conditions.

Potato yields were checked in all 4-H club potato projects and in 10 fields of adult growers. Highest yield was John Hartman's 620 bushels per acre.

Schoolcraft County was represented at the U. P. Potato show by seven exceptionally good 4-H club exhibits and by two 32-tuber samples and seven tablestock samples from adult growers.

Otto Winkel of Cooks achieved the very fine herd average of 12,792 pounds of milk and 477.7 pounds of butterfat.

Artificially sired heifers started coming into production in March of 1951. The first was in Louis Heyrman's herd at Munising.

ABA Program

The Schoolcraft County A.B.A. is continuing to operate, but has failed to increase membership and activity. The first A.B.A. heifers will come into production during the coming winter. A new inseminator, Edmund Popour of Cooks, was hired to replace Lawrence Sablack in the Schoolcraft County A.B.A.

Farmers and 4-H club members were assisted in locating and buying 14 registered heifers and two bulls.

The Seasons Salad lesson was presented to project leaders from seven Alger County Home Extension clubs and fifteen Schoolcraft County clubs. Altogether 359 homemakers received the lesson through the club meetings.

The Pattern Alteration lesson was given in six clubs with a total attendance of 86 club members.

Selecting Wood Furniture was presented to project leaders in two training centers in Schoolcraft County. The lesson was taught to 95 club members in 10 clubs.

Home Ec Clubs Active

Saving Time and Energy on the Job was presented at the two training centers in Schoolcraft County. Eleven local meetings were held with 105 homemakers attending.

The Sewing Machine Attachments lesson was taught to 196 members at 14 clubs.

The lesson on Cleaning Rugs and Upholstery was taught to 152 members at 11 clubs.

Alger County Clubs set up an educational exhibit refinishing furniture at the U. P. State Fair. Mrs. George Lelvis and Mrs. Bruno Lindfors were co-chairmen of the exhibit committee.

Mrs. F. T. Burgess was chairman of the Schoolcraft County exhibit committee which set up an educational exhibit, showing clothing made with sewing machine attachments.

Both counties participated in the Bay Cliff Health Camp project in which they made sun mats and bed bags for the camp.

Many Winter Projects

Winter 4-H projects were carried on in all the rural communities in Schoolcraft County and six of the eight townships in Alger County.

Forty-three Alger and 114 Schoolcraft girls completed requirements for the clothing project, making 297 articles. Thirty-six girls and one boy completed knitting projects.

Alger County has 45 and Schoolcraft County 83 handicraft members completing projects making 393 articles.

Eighteen girls, nine in each county, completed the 4-M girl project.

There were 95 project completions in craft work consisting chiefly of ceramics, leather, wood-burning and crocheting.

Schoolcraft County has 17 and Alger County nine members completing conservation projects.

Four boys completed a 4-H welding project in Manistique township under the leadership of Elwyn Anderson.

Twelve members completed requirements for the 4-H potato project growing 7½ acres of potatoes with a combined total yield of over 2000 bushels.

Nineteen boys and girls enrolled in the 4-H garden project. Three exhibited garden baskets at the U. P. State Fair, winning one red and two blue ribbons.

31 In Dairy Project

Twenty-one 4-H members enrolled in the Dairy project with 19 completing. The Alger County dairy club had 100% completions with every member exhibiting at the U. P. State Fair. Interest in 4-H Dairy work is increasing.

Six members of Schoolcraft County completed the Poultry project.

Golden Gloves Champions Crowned Saturday

A pair of rock 'em-sock 'em novice lightweights stole the show in the championship round of the 10th annual Upper Michigan Golden Gloves tournament here Saturday night.

Harvard Lancour, tigerish Manistique 135-pounder, and Nick Nieremberger, Soo lightweight with dynamite in both hands, had the finals crowd screaming through three rounds of bloody, mauling fighting. Lancour copped a close duke with a strong finish in the third round.

The Manistique scrapper threw straight punches in the first round to offset crushing right crosses and hard left hooks thrown by the chunky Nieremberger. Lancour drew blood in the second round with a sharp right to the nose but Nieremberger countered with hooks to the body and head and had Lancour bleeding at the end of the round.

Booming Rights

Both boys stepped up the pace in the third round and traded booming right hands to the face. A fast finish provided the slight edge for Lancour. Trainer Ed Toyra's champ moved into the finals by whipping Gerald McGregor earlier in the program. Lancour led through the three rounds by a close margin and dropped his opponent with a right hand to the chin shortly before the final bell.

Nieremberger advanced to the finals by outscraping Richard Boye of Menominee earlier in the evening. A game finish by Boye failed to cut the wide edge piled up by the hard-hitting Soo fighter. Manistique won the team championship by placing five champions on the Upper Peninsula team which left yesterday for Milwaukee to enter the semi-finals of the Journal tournament which will be staged at the new Arena tonight.

'Stique Champs

Other 'Stique champs were Orville Belanger in the 118 novice class. Wayne Tutnell in the 135 open, Francis Selling in 147 open and Bob Minor in the 126 open. Selling and Minor were unopposed in the tournament here.

Soo put three champs through the tourney. Larry Simpkins captured the 147 novice crown. Cart Vertz won at 126 in the novice division and Ralph Butler carried off the light heavyweight open championship.

Menominee's team sent John McDonald, 112 novice champion, to the Milwaukee tourney. A U. P. novice middleweight was not crowned here Saturday night when Mel Corbin of Soo and Lawrence Aldrich of Manistique moved into the finals before it was learned that Corbin was 21 years of age. Both boys made the trip to Milwaukee where it will be determined if Corbin's age will allow to compete as a novice.

The Saturday night program was again studded with knockouts and TKOs. Corbin of the Soo furnished the first and fastest finish in the third fight on the program when he put Bill McKenzie of Munising away in 30 seconds of the first round with a left hook to the chin. McKenzie had provided fireworks Friday night by flattening Larry Lane of Menominee in 1:50 of the second round.

Technical Knockouts

Hardhitting Irving Henriksen, Manistique novice welterweight, scored his second knockout of the tourney by stopping Paul Marietta of Ishpeming at 1:40 of the third round on a TKO. Henriksen himself was a TKO victim of sharp Larry Simpkins of the Soo in the welterweight title bout. Simpkins finished Henriksen in 35 seconds of the third round.

Louis Phelan, wild-swinging Menominee novice featherweight, had little trouble disposing of Russell Duff, Gastra, after one minute of action in the third round. Manistique's Wayne Tutnell brought his 135 open bout with Louis Dreon of Negaunee to an abrupt end after seven seconds of the second round. Tutnell had dropped Dreon shortly before the bell in the first round and came out fast to finish the bewildered Negaunee battler with a blasting right hand to the head.

In one of the most interesting bouts on the program, Simpkins edged Menominee's classy Clyde Scheutte in a semi-final fray. Simpkins worked a nice left jab early in the fight while Scheutte scored with left hooks.

The boys worked hard in the second round and both landed solid punches. After a fast third round Simpkins was given a close decision over Scheutte and the crowd roared its disapproval. A longer, sharper left hand gave the Soo boy his slight edge, however.

The first fight on the program found Leonard Fox of Munising decisioning Aleck Littlebear of Soo with fast punches thrown inside. Fox was unable to meet Selling for the open welterweight crown later in the night.

Manistique's Aldrich had too much experience and ring know-how for Paul Poutanen of Ishpeming in a 160 semi final novice bout.

Bantam Battle Close

Vertz edged Jim Firzloff of Menominee in his semi final featherweight clash. Vertz moved too fast for the Menominee hooker but couldn't match his punching power and was slow in the final round.

McDonald of Menominee won the 112 novice title by decisioning a team mate, Ronald Sobay. McDonald's experience and poise gave him an edge in each round.

One of the closest fights of the night determined the 118 novice championship with Belanger of Manistique shading Gary Warner of Soo. Belanger tossed straight right hands to the head in the final round to overcome Warner's slight edge. Belanger converted his first round hooks to straight punches which paid off in the eyes of Referee James Mancini and the two ring judges.

Vertz took the 126 novice featherweight title in a slow bout with Phelan. Both boys were tired and threw wild punches for three rounds.

The nightcap was a rugged bout in which Butler beat Manistique's Paul Crawford for the light heavyweight crown. Hard right to the body kept Butler ahead after Crawford had bloodied his nose with left jabs in the first round.

Complete results:
147 Open—Leonard Fox, Munising, decisioned Aleck Littlebear, Soo. Fox defeated Francis Selling, Manistique, for championship.

Pete Dube Answers Challenge Tonight At Indoor Rink

Ice skate racing is the fare for sports fans here tonight as Escanaba's remarkable Pete Dube returns to action to face a challenge from a Wisconsin speed expert in the form of Olaf Klandrud.

Dube, 73 years old, will test Klandrud, 59, in a best two of three mile race. Winner will be awarded a handsome trophy by Arthur Petersen, city recreation director.

Following the race, spectators will take part in public skating. Nominal admission charge will be made for the program.

Spike Briggs Is New Tiger Boss

DETROIT—The destinies of Detroit's Tigers still are in the hands of a Briggs—Walter O. (Spike) Briggs Jr., a 40-year-old one-time college second baseman. Election of young Briggs to succeed his father, Walter O. Briggs, as president of the Detroit Baseball Company was announced Saturday night, following a meeting of a newly-elected board of directors composed mostly of Briggs' in-laws.

Harnies Win In Cage Tourney

The Escanaba Harnischfeger quint captured an opening round win in the Oconto Falls Invitational basketball tournament last night, defeating a classy Peshtigo All-Star team 71-64.

The Escanaba team moves into the semi finals next Saturday night to face Two Rivers at 7:30. Ed Gauthier paced the Harnies with 21 points. Tom St. Germain contributed 17 and Bob Dufour and Don Lewis each came through with 12.

The Harnies spurred in the final two minutes to break loose from a 64-64 knot.

Davis Cup Star Is Upset Victim

ADELAIDE, Australia—(AP)—Big, hard-hitting Ken McGregor won the Australian tennis championship today when he upset Davis Cup star Frank Sedgman, 7-5, 12-10, 2-6, 6-2, in an all-Aussie final before some 6,500 surprised spectators.

Sedgman, regarded as the No. 1 player in the world, seemed to have an off-day, and McGregor was quick to cash in on Frank's frequent errors.

It was a doubly sweet victory for McGregor, for he not only won the title which just eluded him last year, but he showed the cup selectors down here that they may have been mistaken when they failed to give him a singles berth in the recent challenge round against the United States.

McGregor played only doubles against the U. S., the singles berths going to Mervyn Rose and, naturally, Sedgman.

Trojans Return To Action Tuesday Eve Against Bark River

Coach Tom St. Germain's St. Joe Trojans, beaten in their last two starts after winning seven straight cage contests, will return to action tomorrow night in a host role with Bark River-Harris providing the opposition.

The Trojans dropped successive contests to Gwinn and Escanaba in their last two times out and fell from their high scoring rating. In a previous game with Bark River the Trojans posted a 68-31 margin.

Coach St. Germain indicated today that a change in the starting St. Joe lineup will be made.

Escanaba, Marquette Post Junior Ice Wins

Marquette and Escanaba posted wins in junior hockey play Saturday morning at the Escanaba indoor rink.

The Junior Hawks beat the Menominee West End Wildcats 9-2 and the Gladstone Falcons lost to the Marquette Muskies 11-0.

In another clash the Wells sextet polished off Cornell 10-3 Sunday afternoon. Wells plays at Gladstone tonight.

Cold Eskymos Lose To Marquette Quint 44-34

MARQUETTE—(Special)—The Marquette Redmen parlayed an early lead into a 44-34 cage win over a cold Escanaba Eskymo quint here Saturday night.

Looking like anything but the red hot team which stretched Ishpeming and beat St. Joe in its two previous starts, the Eskys trailed 12-5 at the end of the first period.

Rodman's Foxes Top Niagara Quint 85-44

HERMANSVILLE—Chick Gerish pumped 23 points through the hoop to pace Rodman's Bar Foxes to an 85-44 victory over the Niagara Badgers here last night.

The Hermansville quint took an early lead and was never headed. George Maule and Tony Machalk contributed 16 points apiece for the winners.

Wednesday night the Foxes entertained the Iron Mountain VFW quint at 8:15 and Sunday night at 8 play the Kingsford Drags in a rematch.

In This Corner With Ray Crandall

Delta county Golden Gloves fighters failed to get a win in the tournament here over the weekend. . . But the boys handled themselves well considering the terrific handicaps under which they were competing. . . Many spectators were unaware that all six of the Delta county entrants were stepping into a Golden Gloves ring for the first time in their lives. . . That in itself is a big enough obstacle to overcome as most of the competitors had seen previous action. . . But even more disheartening for five of the lads was the fact that they had never even seen a Golden Gloves bout before.

Two of our entries had miserable luck on the pairings, meeting the eventual champions in their class in the first round of bouts. . . Billy Launderville ran into the classy Manistique novice lightweight champion, Harvard Lancour, the first night. . . And Don Swanson drew welterweight champ Larry Simpkins of the Soo in his first venture into the squared circle.

Ken Maycunich's foe Friday night, Clyde Scheutte of Menominee, was regarded by many spectators as the most dangerous welterweight in the tournament. . . Jim Firzloff, who beat Ted Ritter the first night, went to the semi finals before losing to the novice featherweight champion. . . Bill Apter's conqueror, Dick Boye of Menominee, was also an experienced GG fighter.

Buddy Provo, Escanaba welterweight, lost by the very narrowest of margins in his first fight. . . He lost on a split decision to Paul Marietta of Ishpeming. . . Referee Jim Mancini gave Provo the nod, 29-27. Judge George Hurley had Marietta in front 29-28, and Judge Al Jacobson voted 30-26 for the Ishpeming fighter.

Considering their lack of experience, short training period and cramped workout quarters, the Delta county boys have nothing to be ashamed of. . . Tournament officials from the sponsoring Lions club were pleased with the game fights put up by Delta county youngsters and expressed hope that the boys would not be discouraged. . . Incidentally, some of the local scrappers have asked us to pass on public expression of appreciation to Jimmy Smith and the other firemen at the North Escanaba station. . . Although the training quarters there are far from adequate, the firemen were more than generous in offering their recreation room and shower to the fighters.

Mike Bukovich Quits Hockey

HOUGHTON — (AP) — Mike Bukovich and Bernie Ruelle, star forwards, quit the Portage Lake Pioneers Sunday after they defeated the Marquette Sentinels by a score of 10 to 4.

Only 600 fans saw the game which was a nip and tuck affair until the last period. According to Bukovich, lack of support prompted the retirement of the two star players. Bernie Ruelle made four of the Portage Lake scores.

Portage Lake made two scores in the first period, four in the second and four in the third while Marquette made three in the second and one in the third.

Saturday night, the Calumet Radars and Portage Lake played to a 3 to 3 tie in the Calumet Armory before 1,600 fans. The game was marred by rough play and in one instance Tony Bukovich was given a ten minute penalty for tossing his stick into the crowd, injuring three women spectators. One of them required hospital treatment.

Nahma Stretches Lead In Central

Coach Harold "Babe" Anderson's Nahma Arrows, one of three undefeated quints in the Upper Peninsula, have a stranglehold on the Central Upper Peninsula cage conference lead.

The Arrows now boast a 9-0 record in league play and have four games remaining. Two more wins will cinch at least a share of the championship.

Rapid River remains in second place with five wins, two losses. Coach Norman Slough's Rockets play at Cooks tomorrow night. Nahma gets into action Friday night as host to Rock.

Powers, in fourth place with 4-2, entertains Cooks Friday night.

St. Paul Nips Rock By 60-55

ROCK—St. Paul of Negaunee jumped off to a 26-14 first quarter lead here Saturday night and hung on as Rock staged a determined final period rally that fell short.

The Saints snared a 60-55 victory in spite of 21 points by Coach Vic Mankiewicz' Rock quint in the final period.

Dighera, St. Paul center, led the fast Saints on the scoreboard with 21 points. He registered 10 of them in the first quarter.

Rock took a 36-33 victory in the Bee game preliminary.

College Cage Ranks Boast Only Two Unbeaten Teams

NEW YORK—(AP)—Down, down goes the list of major unbeaten college basketball teams and today there were but two quints in the nation with unblemished marks—Duke and St. Bonaventure.

And on Feb. 11, assuming the two continue their winning ways, there will be only one because they meet on that date. Duke's won't have it easy starting tonight, though, when it shoots for No. 12 against Villanova. The Dukes then face Baldwin-Wallace tomorrow and Akron Wednesday.

The Bonnies, with 12 in a row, aren't scheduled to play until Saturday, when they tangle with Loyola of Chicago.

Two Drop Out
At the rate the mighty have been biting the dust, it will be surprising, indeed, if the season produces one undefeated team.

Illinois and Kansas, running Nos. 1-2, respectively, in last week's Associated Press poll, were on the outside looking in after seeing their proud skins snapped Saturday night. De Paul polished off Illinois, 69-65, and Kansas State thumped Kansas soundly, 61-64. Illinois had won 11 straight and Kansas 13.

The defeat of Kansas has the most significance. The Jayhawks were engaged in a nip-and-tuck battle with State for the Big Seven lead. Both showed 3-0 marks in the league until the game. Now K-State boasts 4-0 to 3-1 for its rival. They have another date at Lawrence on March 7, so Clyde Lovellette and Co. will have a chance to recoup.

No other team has a chance in the Big Seven race.

In the Missouri Valley, it's beginning to look as though St. Louis, which has been the bridesmaid to Oklahoma A and M for two years, will come through this time. St. Louis took care of its tormenters Saturday, 48-40, and now shows a 4-0 record in league play compared to the Aggies' 2-1. They play again on March 6.

Hot Down South
In the Southeastern and Southern Conferences, nothing has happened to upset the leaders, namely, Kentucky and North Carolina State, except a couple of close games which may or may not indicate trouble ahead.

Kentucky, undefeated with a 6-0 record, had to go right down to the wire to defeat Alabama, court Saturday night. The Indians outscored the Braves, 17 field goals to 16, but the Gladstone quint connected with 14 charity heaves while Newberry got but eight and these provided the four-point margin of victory.

Newberry took a 14-9 advantage in the first quarter but the Braves rallied to cut the margin two points and the halftime score was Newberry 26; Gladstone 23. In the third period the Braves scored 12 points while holding the Indians to six and were never headed from then on, outscoring the local five 11 to 10 in the final period.

Tom Taylor, Newberry ace, was high point man for the evening, chalking up 16 points before leaving the game on five personals.

Lowell LaPlant and Martin Becker of the visiting five each had 12 points.

FELCH—Felch clicked for four periods of constant basketball here Saturday night to post a 52-46 revenge win over the Hermansville Redskins. In a previous meeting Hermansville won 45-44.

Felch led in each period and had a 40-33 margin going into the final quarter when Hermansville rallied to outscore the winners 13-12 but was unable to cut the gap further.

Felch took the Bee team preliminary by a 47-33 margin.

Britain Given 300 Million To Bolster Arms Buildup

Job Shortages Give Michigan Political Fuss

By MARION BURSON
WASHINGTON—(P)—There's a lot of political fussing over Michigan's unemployment problem.

That's only natural. Democrats and Republicans seem to be testing each other's defenses for soft spots that might be vulnerable in the fall election campaign.

Ferguson Not Happy
Take, for example, this task force being sent to Detroit by Manly Fleischmann, Defense Production Administrator, with the enthusiastic approval of Senator Blair Moody (D-Mich).

Senator Ferguson (R-Mich) was not so happy about it. As Moody explains it, the task force will try to channel more defense work into the Detroit area, where the auto makers have been hard hit by cutbacks in materials.

Some 130,000 southern Michigan workers are idle because of this situation.

Cuts Not Necessary
Ferguson told the Senate the real cause of Detroit's unemployment has its origin in Washington and that the real cure must come from here.

He believes there was no necessity for the deep cuts DPA made in its steel, aluminum and copper allotments to the auto industry.

"This task force," Ferguson continued, "applies the old Washington method. When the administration agencies here get a job they cannot do, or do not know how to do, then a committee is appointed to look into it, in the hope that the problem will solve itself."

Allegan Boy, 4, Dies In Freezing Swamp 2 Blocks From Home

ALLEGAN, Mich.—(P)—Wandering away from his home while at play, Ronald Robson, 4½, died in a sub-freezing swamp two blocks from his home here yesterday.

Authorities said the boy died of exposure or drowning. His body, found by his distraught mother among a posse of 50, was in two feet of water. Ronald was the son of Mr. and Mrs. James Robson. The father is an Allegan pharmacist and the family lives in a sparsely settled neighborhood.

The boy went out to play around 11 a. m. A neighbor saw him in his yard at 12:30 p. m. when he failed to come in for lunch at 1 p. m., his mother began a search. Unable to find him she called his father. Later police were called and neighbors joined a searching party. The body was found about 5:30 p. m.

Winnipeg Pair Kill Girl Who Would Not Pray

WINNIPEG, Man.—(P)—Police last night read a statement to a coroner's jury in which a middle-aged couple said they beat and strangled their seven-year-old foster daughter to death because she "mocked God" and refused to pray.

"Now she's safe in the arms of the Lord," the statement given city police by Gavin McCullough, 51, said.

McCullough, former office manager of the Winnipeg Chamber of Commerce, and his wife, Lillian, 52, have been charged with murder. They were arrested Friday after the body of the child, Martha Louise, was found lying among an assortment of religious pamphlets in the McCullough's suburban home.

Out All Night
After the killing, police said, the couple went to a vacant lot and, in sub-zero weather, prayed all night. McCullough said they were waiting "for the coming of God, who was going to establish a second kingdom in Winnipeg."

Neither the man nor his wife, who had adopted the child when she was three months old, appeared at the inquest. Mrs. McCullough was transferred Sunday to the psychopathic ward of the Winnipeg General Hospital after guards reported her "hard to handle."

McCullough, in the statement read at the inquest, gave this account of the slaying:

He and his wife were praying when the little girl entered the room. They asked her to join them.

Former Skid Row Derelict Named Chicagoan-Of-Year

CHICAGO—(P)—A man who describes himself as a one time derelict of Detroit's Skid Row was named Chicagoan of the Year yesterday from a field of more than 100 persons nominated for the honor.

He is Capt. Thomas Crocker, commanding officer of the Salvation Army's Harbor Light Corps in West Madison Street, in the heart of Chicago's Skid Row.

The judges in the contest cited Crocker for his "selfless devotion to saving human souls." It is estimated he has rehabilitated 5,000 Skid Row derelicts since he came to Chicago in 1947 from Detroit.

Judge Gets Sassed
DETROIT — (P)—Beverly Fiorella, 18, is awaiting sentence by Recorder Judge Frank G. Schmanske for telling the court to "go jump in the lake." She became angered in court Monday when the judge ordered her brother, Eugene, 20, held pending determination of whether he should go to jail as a probation violator.

Security Fund Will Be Spent Mostly In U. S.

Cutback Threatened In Defense Effort

By EDWARD E. BOMAR
WASHINGTON — (P)—Dollars short Britain is being given an emergency 300 million dollar slice of mutual security funds to prevent a threatened cutback of its defense effort.

The grant was announced last night by mutual security director W. Averell Harriman, who said that without it Britain would be forced to reduce its contribution to the western arms buildup by twice as much.

The money will be used up to July 1 to buy "raw materials and components" which have to be paid for in dollars. The purchases will be made largely in the United States.

Aid Not Earmarked
For the purpose President Truman approved a dip into military aid funds which otherwise might have been used for arms and supplies made in this country. The shift was necessary because Congress made no specific provision for aid to Britain in the new $7,328,903,976 arms aid legislation, although authorizing an emergency transfer.

The action came less than two weeks after Prime Minister Churchill assured Congress "I have not come here to ask you for money."

Actually, Harriman disclosed, negotiations for assistance were in progress before Churchill sailed for the U. S.

Reserves Dwindle
Except for an assist of some 40 million dollars last month, the aid was the first extended the British since Britain voluntarily waived further Marshall Plan help more

Gambling Case Opens At Flint

FLINT, Mich.—(P)—One of Genesee county's biggest criminal trials—the gambling conspiracy case against 17 men—was ordered to start today.

Circuit Judge Herman Dehnke of Harrisville, the jurist of one-man grand jury fame, ordered court convened to select a jury.

Behind was a lost of history, including three years of legal maneuvering since the indictments were returned in 1948.

This had gone on right up to yesterday when Circuit Judge Paul V. Dehnke denied a defense motion that the jury panel was drawn illegally.

Originally 27 men were indicted in a so-called racket cleanup. The charge against the 17 defendants is that they conspired to "violate gambling laws by operating a horse race betting syndicate."

Allegedly, they helped to operate a string of bookie establishments.

New Hampshire GOP Test May Be 3-Way Race

(By The Associated Press)

The possibility of a three-way Republican race loomed today in New Hampshire's March 11 presidential preference balloting, first in the nation this year.

Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower already is qualified backers say Senator Robert E. Taft of Ohio will enter today and it was possible Harold E. Stassen would file by deadline tomorrow.

Rap From MacArthur

The word on Taft came from Ted Johnson in Concord, head of New Hampshire's Bob Taft Club. Taft, stumping in Florida, had no comment.

But he spoke out, before lustily cheering crowds, on issues like foreign policy and honesty in government. He talked at Tampa, St. Petersburg and Orlando.

A statement by MacArthur, meanwhile, created ripples in Republican congressional circles. MacArthur said yesterday, in a letter asking that his name be withdrawn from the New Hampshire primary, calling for experienced civil leadership.

Senator Brewster (R-Me) interpreted this as a strong indication of MacArthur's support of Senator Taft. Senator Tobey (R-NH) labeled it "a left-handed slap" at General Eisenhower.

Could Beat Truman

In Montgomery, Ala., a non-profit corporation was set up with the avowed purpose of demonstrating "to the Republicans the plain truth that they can win Alabama and the south with Eisenhower."

A group spokesman said its members all were former down-the-line Democratic voters.

Among Democrats, Senator Byrd of Virginia predicted the GOP nominee would beat President Truman if he runs for reelection.

Ohio Flood Slowed Down By Freezeup; No Heat In Homes

MARIETTA, O.—(P)—The crest of the flooding Ohio River moved into southeastern Ohio today, but freezing temperatures kept the level a bit below expectations.

Cold weather added further misery to the flood, which already has made 8,000 persons homeless and caused nine deaths.

Ice Covers Roads
Many persons who had planned to stay in upper floors of their homes were forced to evacuate for lack of heat. Water froze in gas pipes and basements. The cold snap covered roads with ice, but transportation already had been brought to a near standstill by the flood.

An estimated 30,000 workers couldn't get to their jobs. Production losses are expected to run into hundreds of thousands of dollars, although the plants themselves were not hard hit.

Swollen waters stopped most cross-country traffic in many sections of the state. The Ohio highway department said more than 100 roads were closed.

River Front Evacuated
Areas where the flood hit the worst were the area from Steubenville, O., south to Wellsburg, W. Va., where more than 2,000 fled their homes; Wheeling, W. Va., where 2,000 more were chased out and Marietta, O., where another 1,000 were being evacuated.

The river crested yesterday at East Liverpool, O., some 40 miles northwest of Pittsburgh, Pa., and 30 miles downstream at Steubenville. The crest measured nearly 44 feet late yesterday at Bellaire, O., across the river from Wheeling, W. Va., another 30-odd miles down river.

Cincinnati expected its 52-foot flood stage to be passed Wednesday. The crest prediction of 61 to 62 feet for the Queen City means extensive evacuation on the river front.

Alexander New British Minister

LONDON — (P)—Prime Minister Winston Churchill announced today he has chosen Field Marshal Viscount Alexander to take the job of defense minister off his aging shoulders.

Alexander, 60, has been governor-general of Canada since 1946. Vincent Massey has been appointed his successor in that job and Alexander will return to Britain in mid-February, assuming the defense ministry on March 1.

Churchill also announced King George will make Alexander an Earl, a notch higher in the peerage than his present title.

The defense ministry was created by Churchill when he became prime minister in May, 1940. Alexander then was commanding the First Division of the British expeditionary force, which he led off the bloody beaches of Dunkerque after the Allied defeat.

Later he was named British Commander in Burma. There he directed the long retreat from Japanese invaders. Alexander then became deputy commander in chief of the North African campaign, serving as right hand man to Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower.

After the North African victory—from which he later took his title of Viscount Alexander of Tunis—he commanded Allied ground forces in Sicily and finally was top man—supreme Allied commander—in the latter stages of the Italian campaign.

Youngsters Set For Day On Ice

There will be no basketball practice in the city grade school basketball program Saturday, it was announced today by Arthur Petersen, recreation director, as youngsters will participate in the annual ice play-day program.

All boys and girls in the public and parochial grade schools from the third through sixth grade are invited to take part in the program and near 500 are expected at the Royce Park rink Saturday afternoon.

The program, which is under the direction of the Escanaba recreation department in cooperation with the schools, will get under way at 1:30. Races will be run off for boys and girls in different grade groups.

Emblem awards will be presented to first and second high point winners, for boys and girls, representing each school. Ribbons will be awarded for first through fourth place winners of races in all grades.

Local Payroll Of Phone Company Is $255,321 In 1951

The Michigan Bell Telephone Company announced today that its Escanaba payroll amounted to $255,321 in 1951—paid to its 92 employees here.

George A. Marcouiller, local manager for the company said that the total payroll in Michigan Bell territory was $80,341,500, a record high. Employees totalled 22,957.

The employee-census shows 64 per cent are women. Of these, 9,227 are operators, and others who handle long-distance and local service. There has been an increase of 489 operators since 1950 although many exchanges in Michigan Bell have been cut over to dial equipment.

"The proportion of dial telephones to the total in service in Michigan Bell territory was 87 per cent in 1951," Marcouiller pointed out. "Yet, these mechanical changes and other important technical developments, such as operator toll dialing directly to distant cities, have not meant a decrease in the total of operators in the company."

"We added approximately 112,500 telephones, company-wide, last year. Demand for service has been due, partly, to natural growth of the population, to a growing need for and dependence on telephones, and higher living standards. Improvements in telephone equipment have meant faster and better service today. That, in turn, has created more work and more jobs as we provide expanded telephone service."

Of the almost 23,000 telephone employees, 70 per cent of the men have more than five years of service with Michigan Bell, and 36 per cent of the women. Approximately 6,500 of the men and 2,500 of the women have 20 years or more with the company.

Hawks Guests At Lions Meet

Members of the Escanaba senior hockey team, which is giving another good account of itself in the fast Northern Michigan league, were honored by the Escanaba Lions club at its regular dinner-meeting in the Sherman hotel.

The principal speaker was the Rev. James G. Ward, of Escanaba, who recounted some of his own playing experiences in his native Canada and in northern Minnesota and South Dakota. He also told something of the origin and development of the game that now is described as the "world's fastest sport."

In closing, the Rev. Mr. Ward congratulated the players and directors of the Escanaba Hockey association for their contribution in bringing the game to this city and to the Lions club for being host to the two groups.

Leadership Training
Gust Asp served as master of ceremonies and introduced Emil Zittner, president of the Escanaba Hockey association, who stressed the value of leadership training in participation in athletics, and James G. Productive Industry In U. S. Refutes Socialism Industrial productiveness that has made the United States the greatest nation in the world is the answer refuting claims of socialism and communism A. J. Miller, assistant director of industrial relations, Mead Corporation, told a joint meeting of the Escanaba Kiwanis and Rotary Clubs yesterday noon.

Miller is conducting a productive teamwork program for supervisory and management personnel at the Escanaba Paper Company, Mead subsidiary. He talked to the service clubs at the House of Ludington.

The U. S. has the most productive program in the world through an understanding of forces human and mechanical, through teamwork, and in business operations, Miller said.

Answer To Socialism

These accomplishments are under an American plan of freedom now threatened by forces of socialism allied with communism, Miller declared.

He cited the national socialistic experiments in England, Italy, Australia, New Zealand, France and Russia as examples in which government has either nationalized or controls industry. The failures are obvious, for what Americans take for granted is considered luxury in socialistic countries, Miller said.

In the United States government is based on a belief in God, the freedom to worship God, freedom of speech, of assembly, and of the press, Miller continued.

U. S. Accomplishments

Political freedoms have their counterpart in economic freedoms that together make the United States the productive giant of the world. The freedom to bargain with employers, to enter business, to contract—these are part of the American way, Miller said.

With six per cent of the world's land and only seven per cent of the world's population, the United States out-produces the rest of the world, Miller pointed out.

The United States produces 34 per cent of the meat, 38 per cent of the radios, 85 per cent of the cars on the road, 92 per cent of the bath tubs, has 52 per cent of the high school enrollment, 50 per cent of all hospital beds in the world.

How It Operates

Life expectancy in the United States has increased from 40 to 68 years since 1840 and health services are being improved, Miller said, citing the one doctor for 25,000 population in China in contrast.

How has the United States been able to create 50 per cent of the world's wealth with only six per cent of the land and only seven per cent of the world's population?

Miller described it as the result of a unique business system created by American freedom. While the primary purpose of those who go into business is to make money, it requires the savings of stockholders to establish a business; customers are needed to buy products and services; and out of it all comes profits paid in taxes to maintain government, and to reimburse the stockholders.

Competition is a driving force, resulting in better products to consumers, and if government should have the power to divert investments and replace management—the end would be socialism and the death of the American business system, Miller concluded.

Winter dust storms of Oklahoma and Kansas often cause "brown snowfalls" in Vermont and New Hampshire.

State Promises Action To Improve US-2, M-35

The resolution for the improvement of the much-traveled section of US-241 between Escanaba and Gladstone received a promise of action from State Highway Commissioner Charles M. Ziegler yesterday.

In a letter to William Karas, Delta county road commission superintendent-engineer, Ziegler pledged that a survey of the area of highway referred to in the resolution would be made "at the first opportunity after the change in the weather this spring."

The resolution, submitted to the State Highway Department after a meeting of the road commission Jan. 14, cited the heavy volume of traffic on the highway, the surface failures due to high usage and poor subgrade and the importance of the highway as a link to other traffic routes as contributing factors to desirability of improvement on the road.

The state highway commissioner also declared that a solution to the surface problem of US-35 between Perkins and Trombley was forthcoming.

He said that blacktopping of this six-mile section of the new highway which was rebuilt to the east of the former route had been programmed for fiscal 1952.

In reference to another request from the county road commission to improve the section of M-35 from Rock to the county line at Lathrop, Ziegler stated that it was unwise to resurface this road since the major flaw of the highway was in the quality of the under-surface.

He pointed out that money should not be spent here on improvement because the highway is more needful of almost complete reconstruction. He advised that maintenance of the highway be continued in the way of patching until appropriation for greater improvement could be made.

OF ESCANABA, INC

IN A DEMONSTRATION held on October 18, 1951, during Oil Progress Week, old-time and modern cars were used to show the results of scientific tests proving that two gallons of today's gasoline can do the work that took three gallons in 1925.

SPECIAL VALUE

Today's high quality gasoline ...at 1925 prices!

Yes—it's true you get today's gasoline at about 1925 prices. Only the tax is higher.

But its surprisingly low price is only part of the value you receive from today's gasoline. The improvement in gasoline performance has been remarkable.

Taking into consideration the increased weight, size, speed and power of modern cars... two gallons of today's gasoline can do the work of three in 1925. In combination with today's engines—made possible by improved fuels and lubricants—your modern car can do 50% more work than you got in 1925.

Today's gasoline is a big value chiefly because thousands of petroleum companies, large and small, are competing for business.

Since the end of World War II, members of the petroleum industry have spent 12 billion dollars on new facilities such as oil wells, pipelines, refineries, service stations, and research laboratories. Only in this way, have they been able to add the capacity and make the quality needed to meet your needs and national defense requirements.

During the same period Standard Oil and its subsidiary companies have spent over one billion dollars in this way. An important part of this money has come from re-investment of two-thirds of its profits for new tools and equipment in a vast expansion program.

We're not only in a race to meet ever-growing demand with bigger volume... we're also in a race to build demand with higher quality products.

All of which means that, as far as Standard Oil is concerned, you can look forward to an even better value in gasoline tomorrow.

Standard Oil Company

GASOLINE'S A BARGAIN because workers like Ed. E. Herndon, stillman at our Neodesha, Kansas refinery, have the latest and best tools to work with, so that more products and better products can be processed to meet rising demand. The investment of our 116,000 owners has made possible the costly equipment which modern refineries require. The modern tools and equipment with which our employees work help them to produce more, earn more, and to enjoy steadier employment.

GASOLINE'S A BARGAIN because thousands of Standard Oil dealers—independent businessmen like Bill Paisley of Wichita, Kansas—offer it to you in convenient locations as you need it, at surprisingly low prices. Mrs. C. S. Ward, one of Bill's regular customers, knows she can depend on good value in the products and services at her neighborhood Standard Oil station, not only because the prices she pays are reasonable, but because she can rely on the products she uses for consistent high quality.

Your Help Urgently Needed As March Of Dimes Drive Nears End

THE March of Dimes campaign is drawing to a close in Delta and other counties of Michigan. The deadline for giving is near for those who have overlooked that obligation to help the youngsters afflicted with polio.

Part of the money you give will stay at home to help the crippled and the handicapped. The remainder will go to the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis.

Maintaining its three-fold job of patient care, professional education and research has become exceedingly difficult for the National Foundation in the last four years. Each of these years it has gone into debt trying to do the job.

This situation has been brought about by an upward surge of polio that has seen more cases reported and more March of Dimes funds spent in the last four years than in the entire previous decade combined.

The 1952 March of Dimes will determine whether the National Foundation is to maintain this total attack to the end that polio and its crippling after-effects may be obliterated once and for all from the environment of man.

No aspect of this attack may be neglected. Children and adults stricken with this crippling disease must be provided with the best available care—there is no question about that; we must live with polio until it is conquered.

But we must get on with the business of conquering it too. For in the final analysis the most important single thing we can do is to make patient care unnecessary; in other words, we must protect man from ever getting polio at all.

In the field of research, March of Dimes scientists have made giant, if inconclusive, strides. They haven't found the answer yet, but they have improved treatment and they have pieced together so many of the ingredients to the final solution that researchers are optimistic the answer will be found within the not-too-distant future.

There's no question about supporting research; it is obviously a must. So is professional education, the part of the National Foundation's program that trains many of the people who staff the hospitals and man the research laboratories. Money and equipment are not enough; skilled hands and trained minds are necessary. We cannot neglect professional education without neglecting patient care and research.

Increased incidence and costs have made this three-fold fight difficult beyond comprehension. The National Foundation and its thousands of volunteers are not daunted by the challenge, however; they know that with the help of all Americans in the 1952 March of Dimes the fight against polio will be sustained and carried through to a successful conclusion.

ASSESS BIGGER FINES

(Marquette Eagle-Star)

Marathon county seems to have found an answer in part on how to reduce traffic violations. The simple remedy is to assess bigger fines against the violators.

A drunken driver arraigned at Wausau was assessed $75 and costs instead of the customary $50. Another driver was fined $30 for failing to register and report title transfer. A third paid $10 for speeding, a fourth was assessed $25 for failure to stop after an accident, and a fifth $10 for driving on the wrong side of the road.

Traffic violations have become so commonplace that there is a tendency on the part of the courts to handle the cases in routine fashion. The Marathon court is disposed to stiffen the assessment against violators. When the word gets out that the courts are not lenient the drivers are inclined to exercise greater care to avoid violating the rules of the road.

Merry-Go-Round

(Editor's Note—Drew Pearson's column today takes the form of a letter to his daughter, Mrs. George L. Arnold, of Santa Monica, Calif.)

By DREW PEARSON

Washington, D. C.
Jan. 26, 1952

Dear Daughter:

The house has seemed very empty ever since you kids left. I suppose I shouldn't call you kids anymore inasmuch as you're a grown lady now with two sons of your own. But anyway it's been lonesome since you left. We packed up the electric train and put it in the attic till next Christmas when I hope you'll be back, and when little Drew will be able to operate it almost as much as his grandfather.

Only next time please don't fly. We almost held our breath until that plane got back to Los Angeles.

A lot of things have been happening since you left. Among others, Harry Truman has been trying to put me in jail again. Undersecretary of the Navy Whitehair tipped him off that I had written a column about a White House conference with General Bradley and he immediately blew his top.

The column had only been on the teletype to New York one hour when I began to hear about it.

The President was really mad. He stormed and raged and said he would throw me in jail. I can't begin to repeat his language, but it was pretty rough.

Finally he told General Bradley to get hold of me and kill the column.

However, when General Bradley read the column he didn't seem to think there was much wrong. He suggested only two changes, which I was glad to make.

INVESTIGATION BEGINS

The column was published on schedule as corrected, no military secrets were revealed, and so far I am still out of jail. But that didn't end the matter. Immediately afterward, the President ordered the FBI to make a superduper investigation of your old man, together with just about everyone I've ever talked to at the Army and Navy.

Top of this, Jim McInerney, assistant attorney general in charge of the Justice Department's criminal division, (his boss, Howard McGrath doesn't like me) had the FBI contact some men who once worked for me and appealed to them to disclose my news sources. Naturally they didn't. They didn't know my sources in the first place and wouldn't have revealed 'em if they did.

The White House investigators then dug back into what I said in defense of General George Marshall when Senator McCarthy attacked him, and have been trying to find out where I got the material I used one whole year ago. I compared General Marshall's wonderful war record with McCarthy's failure to take part in any combat missions; so the investigators want to know where I got McCarthy's war record, which they say was supposed to be a complete secret.

Funny how the President now wants to protect one of his worst senatorial enemies and go after a newsman who defended his old friend Marshall. However, that's the way things are sometimes done around here these days.

However, I'm still out of jail, and if anyone has detected any pulling of punches as a result of all this, I hope my family will be the first to tell me.

Meanwhile, I went down to Reidsville, N. C., last week, to the only town where I was supposed to have spent some time in jail—aside from a short interim in a Siberian jail as the guest of the Soviet.

I don't know whether it's because a criminal always returns to the scene of a crime or whether the folks of Reidsville wanted to give their most famous alleged jailbird a home-coming reception. But anyway I went down to North Carolina and had a wonderful time.

PREDAWN BATH

P. W. Glidewell, the attorney who defended me against the charge of taking a sponge bath in the Southern Railroad yards at 3 a. m. After taking down a chaotauqua tent, introduced me to the Reidsville Chamber of Commerce where I spoke in the evening, and we had quite a time.

A lot of things have changed about Reidsville since the first memorable occasion when I was there. And I guess a lot of things have changed about your father, too. I was 16 then, just out of high school, and no one ever dreamed I would become the bete noir of certain politicians, least of all myself.

Give both of my grandsons a hug, and I hope to stay out of jail a little while longer. Your Father.

A Grave Responsibility

Nizam Of Hyderabad's Gold, Gems Belie His Effort To Appear Poor

By SELIG S. HARRISON

AP Newswire

HYDERABAD—Though his days are numbered in more ways than one, the fabulous Nizam of Hyderabad still doesn't seem interested in getting any fun out of his fortune.

The 65-year-old Nizam, whose riches run over two billion dollars, lost his ruling powers along with all other princes after Prime Minister Nehru took over the government of independent India.

Now the Indian Communists cry out from their village strongholds in Southeast Hyderabad that the Nizam's gold must go, too.

"He's nothing but a miser, always collecting, never giving away," commented Hyderabad chief minister M. K. Vellodi. "Just the same as the old days."

He Had 71 Wives

His exalted highness Mir Mohammed Osman Ali Khan, wizened, 5-foot husband of an estimated 71 wives, has not been out of Hyderabad state since 1935—and never beyond the boundaries of India.

Unlike many Indian Rajas and Nawabs, who sport the most up to date American convertibles, this Nawab No. 1 roars majestically down Hyderabad streets in his vintage '33 Chevrolet.

The storm goes that the Nizam wears one ancient suit, reclining in his bath while servants perform necessary washing or patching. This cuts down laundry bills. One prominent Hyderabad official insists that the Nizam has been wearing the same pair of socks each time he has seen him in the past two years.

Haggles Over Prices

Oldtime Hyderabad residents say they have observed the Nizam in his familiar red fez and high-buttoned "sherwani," or longcoat, haggling in the bazaar over the price of mangoes.

Conservative estimates place the value of the Nizam's gold bars alone at 250 million dollars. His exalted highness himself sets his personal wealth in bullion, investment, and real estate at this sum, declining to estimate the worth of his jewelry, which includes the famed Jacob Diamond, Chief Minister Vellodi declared.

"He doesn't tell us the half of it," said Vellodi wryly. "And of course, trying to put money value on that incredible collection of gems doesn't get you far."

Informed guesses on the jewelry range from 500 million dollars to well over two billion dollars, depending on valuations.

Land holdings of 7,000 square miles, which once brought the Nizam annual income exceeding six million dollars, have now been taken over by the Hyderabad government, Vellodi stated. But the government will pay "compensation" of a million dollars each year until the Nizam dies.

He's On The Dole, Too

The Nizam also receives an annual privy purse of a million dollars from the Indian government. Nehru's deputy prime minister, Sardar Patel, granted this concession after the Nizam capitulated to the Indian Army in 1948 and abandoned his dream of a sovereign Hyderabad surrounded by territory of the new Indian nation. The Nizam was the last holdout among the major princes in joining the Indian Union.

Many of his privileges remain. Within the confines of Hyderabad he still gets the 21-gun salute on important occasions, an honor tradition has conferred only on the Maharajahs of Baroda, Gwalior, Mysore and formerly Kashmir.

He continues to maintain six elegant palaces in his state as well as a "Hyderabad house," for traveling members of his family, in Calcutta, Delhi, Bombay, Madras, and elsewhere. His own palace in Hyderabad city, however, is in reality a modest bungalow behind palace compound walls.

He Has 60 Secretaries

Helping the Nizam with his public and private responsibilities is a secretariat of 60 aides. The palace guard of 1,000-odd "watchmen" is not armed, Vellodi stated. "After all, we can't have private armies any more."

Today as always the big moment of the Nizam's—and Hyderabad's—day comes when he makes his punctual dusk visit to the grave of his mother. Hyderabad police line the Nizam's route, signalling ahead with shrill whistles on the approach of the royal jallopy. Citizens scatter to the sidewalks and watch the Nizam's motorcycle escort whiz by, then the curtained Chevrolet touring car.

It was his mother's Hindu birth which won the Nizam his crown in 1911.

Last of his line, the Nizam ends a dynasty started by Asaf Jah the First, shortly after 1700. Moslem Asaf Jah solemnly accepted a Hindu pandit's reading of the stars that the line would run through seven rulers and then cease. The present heir apparent, 40-year-old Muazzam Jah the First, Prince of Berar, would begin a new line if the changing times would let him.

In addition to the Prince of Berar and another "legal" son by his first wife, the Nizam has fathered two "legal" daughters and 95 children by his concubines.

THE JURY TRIAL—It is a fundamental of American justice that the defendant in a criminal action is presumed to be innocent until proven guilty, and that every respondent has the right to trial before a jury of his fellow citizens.

This right extends to the lower courts, where we saw justice by jury trial in action recently in Justice Henry E. Ranguette's court in Escanaba. The defendant was charged with driving while under the influence of intoxicants.

Judge Ranguette sat at his desk, to his left sat Prosecuting Attorney Clyde McGonagle, representing the plaintiff—the People of the State of Michigan. Counsel for the defendant was seated nearby, and ranged in chairs along the south end of the room was the six-man jury—all local men, most of them in business in the city, and all of good repute.

They were the six agreed upon by the prosecutor and counsel for the defendant from a total list of 18 veniremen summoned by Sheriff William E. Miron.

WITNESSES FOR THE PEOPLE—In circuit (or higher) court 12 persons comprise the jury. In justice or municipal court the juries comprise six persons.

The prosecution began summoning witnesses. The first was a private citizen, who had reported to Escanaba police the "weaving" progress of a car down the highway in the vicinity of Harris.

Four Escanaba police officers followed to testify concerning circumstances of the arrest of the defendant, his appearance as observed by them, including testimony that they had detected the odor of alcohol on his breath.

AND FOR THE DEFENSE—One of the officers was called back as a defense witness and questioned by counsel for the defendant as to why no drunk tests were given the defendant.

The defendant, said the officer, "was in no shape to receive any tests."

Next the defendant himself took the stand and told his story, in which he made it clear that his work made it necessary for him to operate an automobile, and that on the afternoon of his arrest he had two glasses of beer at Pembine, Wis., about two and one-half hours before his arrest in Escanaba.

He denied testimony given by the officers concerning his condition and conduct, but admitted he could have driven his car over the centerline "once or twice," an act which any driver might do occasionally, he said.

THE ARGUMENTS—The defense rested its case on the testimony of the defendant. After cross-examination by the prosecuting attorney, the prosecutor and the defense attorney made their arguments to the jury.

The prosecutor pointed out to the jury that under the law it is not necessary for the plaintiff to prove the defendant was so intoxicated that he was incapable of speech, but testimony was presented to show the defendant's ability to operate a motor vehicle was impaired by intoxicants.

The citizen who notified the officers and appeared as a witness was called "public spirited" by the prosecutor. The decision, he told the jury, was up to its members.

TO THE JURY—Defense counsel in argument to the jury said the defendant is "in a position that any one of you might be in"; that "almost everyone has had a couple of beers and then drove his car"; the police officers are not "disinterested witnesses but out to get a conviction."

The question before the jury, said defense counsel, was whether the defendant "was so intoxicated he was unable to operate his car."

In closing argument the prosecutor pointed out that the defendant himself "is the most interested person in this case and the most prejudiced witness."

The jury after about a half-hour's deliberation found the defendant not guilty of driving while intoxicated, but did find for the lesser crime of reckless driving, to which the defendant paid a fine and costs. The jury had made its decision.

The Doctor Says...

Only the Stork Knows If You'll Have a Boy or Girl

BY EDWIN P. JORDAN, M. D. — Written for NEA Service

Over the years, there have probably been thousands of methods suggested for determining the sex of a child before birth.

Q—Can doctors tell from the heartbeat of an unborn baby whether it is going to be a boy or a girl?

A Reader.

A—No. It must be remembered that even guessing will be right about half the time. There is no method of determining the sex of the unborn child, which has stood up under scientific scrutiny.

Q—Does using tweezers to pull out hairs on the chin promote hair growth on other parts of the face?

P. A.

A—This procedure may cause the hairs on the chin itself to come out thicker and more conspicuous, but there is no reason to believe that it will promote hair growth on other parts of the face.

Q—I'm 29 years old and for the past six months have had a pain in my chest. The doctor found my heart and lungs o. k., but an X-ray showed stones in the gallbladder. Do you believe this pain could be coming from these gallstones?

Mrs. M. C.

A—Yes.

Q—Please advise on the after-effects of removal of the gallbladder. I had mine removed two years ago, shortly before my 77th birthday, and still do not feel well. There were supposed to be soft stones in the gallbladder.

Mrs. F. B. F.

A—Recovery from an operation of this sort at such an age may be quite slow. You should not be discouraged and should stick by the diet which was probably given to you after the operation, and which most likely was low in fatty foodstuffs.

Q—What can I do to help stop dehydrating? I drink six glasses of water every day, and two glasses of buttermilk.

Mrs. W. S.

A—This is not an enormous intake of fluids, but excessive thirst and excessive elimination of urine are among the symptoms of diabetes and you should probably be tested for this as well as other possibilities.

Q—Several weeks ago my daughter, who is 16 months old, was bitten by a dog. The doctor cauterized the wound, which was only a scratch, and told me to check the dog for 10 days. So far as anyone knows, the dog is well. However, I am still worried about the danger of her contracting rabies. Can you relieve my

Mary Ann Murphy Speaks Vows In Church Ceremony

A Detroit wedding of unusual interest both in Escanaba and Gladstone where the bride's parents formerly lived is that of Mary Ann Murphy, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur J. Murphy of 14200 Mansfield Ave., Detroit, and no-nert Charles Krause which took place Jan. 12 in Gesu Church, Detroit. The vows were spoken before Father William Foley at an 11 a. m. service.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a gown of imported French Chantilly lace fashioned with an illusion neckline studded with pearls, long pointed sleeves and a cathedral train of lace over satin. Her cloche of satin covered with lace to match her gown held in place an illusion fingertip veil. She carried a bouquet of stephanotis centered with cymbidium and white orchids.

Aides in Taffeta
Mrs. Robert Morris, matron of honor, wore a waltz length gown of peacock blue taffeta. Brandywine roses with streamers to match composed her bouquet. The bridesmaids, Miss Drusilla Glead of Detroit and Miss Joanne Krause, sister of the bridegroom, were in gowns of melon taffeta, fashioned like the matron of honor's. Cascade bouquets of yellow roses with acacia and yellow ribbon formed their bouquets.

Gerald Donahue was best man for the son of Mr. and Mrs. Carl E. Krause. Seating the guests were John Hastings and Thomas A. Murphy, a brother of the bride.

Mrs. Murphy attended her daughter's wedding in a purple iridescent taffeta suit dress with a pink flowered stone-studded hat and gloves. Her orchids blended with her accessories. Mrs. Krause wore a woodrose lace ballerina length gown with jewel trimmed hat and gloves to match. Her orchids were deep pink.

Honeymoon in Florida
The couple left after the reception for a honeymoon at Fort Lauderdale, Fla. They will live in New York City where the bridegroom is stationed aboard the Navy Carrier, Oriskany.

Among those attending the wedding were Mrs. Rene Sabourin and Mrs. Alton Mallmann of Escanaba. Mrs. Sabourin is a sister of the bride's mother, who will be remembered as the former Loreen Kemp of Escanaba.

MERCURY with MERC-O-MATIC Drive*

CHALLENGING NEW 125 HP
HIGH-COMPRESSION V-8

Here's the new stepped-up successor to the engine which for two straight years won top class honors in officially sponsored economy tests. This year—even more efficiency, greater horsepower, and better power-to-weight ratio. It's high-compression, V-8 power at its best—by the company which has built more V-type engines than all others combined.

3 GREAT TRANSMISSIONS—Mercury offers you a choice of three dependable performance-proved drives: silent-ease standard transmission; thrifty Touch-O-Matic Overdrive*; and Merc-O-Matic*, greatest of all automatic drives.

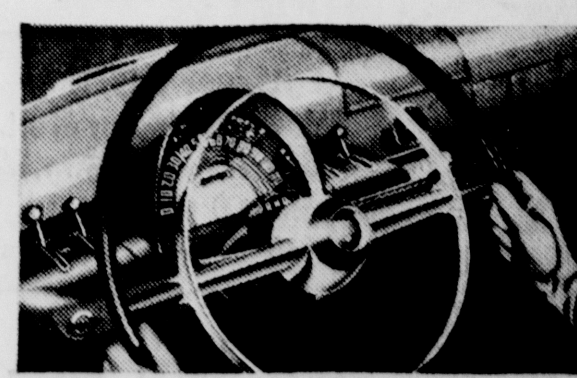

FEAST your eyes on this, America. Mercury has done it—brought you a really new 1952 car that's far, far ahead . . . that stands as an even greater challenge to the motoring world than last year's Mercury, one of the most popular cars that ever came down the American Road.

Your first look begins to tell you why. For here's something entirely new in car design . . . swift, clean lines that sweep from the new "Jet-scoop" hood (inspired by the smartest European cars) to a strikingly new rear deck design. Here's styling made possible for the first time in automotive history by revolutionary new techniques in metal engineering.

But wait till you feel the stepped-up pace, the steady balance of this beauty. There's more power—125-horsepower high-compression V-8—greater pickup, and even better efficiency. And that's saying plenty when you think of the prize-winning Mercury performance of recent years.

So hurry on down to our showroom. Be one of the first to see, drive, and own the car with the "future features" today . . . the challenging new 1952 Mercury.

Standard equipment, accessories, and trim illustrated are subject to change without notice. White-side wall tires when available, at extra cost.

CHALLENGING NEW FUTURE FEATURES

No other car on the road offers so many advanced features for your comfort and convenience. Features like the up-front, "quick-sight" interceptor instrument panel, matchless Merc-O-Matic Drive*, suspension-mounted "Floor-Free" brake pedal, and the centralized "Hide-Away" gas cap for easy fueling from either the right or left. It's your look today at the cars of tomorrow.

Trojans Host To Bark River Broncos Tonight

The St. Joe Trojans return to basketball action tonight in a home appearance against Bark River-Harris. Coach Tom St. Germain's Parochials will be seeking a return to the victory trail after losing their last two starts.

A change in the starting lineup was announced this morning by Coach St. Germain. Dick Cass, sophomore who has seen considerable action as a reserve, moves into a starting forward position for the first time this season.

Cass will be paired with Bill Baker in the forward slots, Pete Kutches will be at center, John Martinac and Jim Gravelle will be working at guards. Bob Sanderburg, guard, will see action as a front line reserve.

The Trojans, with an over-all record of seven wins and two losses, are past the half-way mark in the regular cage season. The speedy Trojans have racked up 613 points for an average of better than 68 per outing.

Kutches Top Scorer

Leading the Trojans in scoring is Pete Kutches, center, with 254 points for an average of 28. The shifty pivotman is one of the highest scoring cagers in the state.

Coach Paul Wiinikainen's Bark River Broncos have had a long rest. The Broncos were last in action Jan. 19, losing to Baraga Parochial of Marquette by a 45-30 score.

Probable starters for the Broncos are Allan Schoen, Dave Kwarciany, Harold Charbonneau, Jack Good and Ken Heim.

The Trojans play again Saturday night, traveling to Munising to face the Great Lakes Conference Mustangs. It will be the first and only meeting of the teams this season.

Coach Steve Baltic's Escanaba Eskys are idle until Friday night when they play host to the Stephenson Eagles. Escanaba will be seeking revenge for an upset 45-43 double overtime loss at Stephenson Jan. 8.

TO LANSING — Morley Fraser, coach of the Newberry High School football team for the past three years, will take over as head grid coach at Lansing Eastern High School, Fraser, whose Indians won the Upper Peninsula grid championship last fall, coached his Newberry teams to three undefeated seasons. His teams went through 23 games without a loss. He will succeed Bernard McCann whose Lansing Eastern team failed to win a game in eight starts last season.

Greasy Neale Gets Ovation

PHILADELPHIA — (AP) — A silver haired former football coach who wasn't even listed on the program stopped the show last night at the 48th annual Philadelphia sportswriters' dinner.

Fred Byrod, president of the sports writers, was introducing notables in the crowd. He called the name of Earle (Greasy) Neale, dismissed coach of the Philadelphia Eagles of the National Football League.

The crowd roared. Byrod couldn't restore order. It was a sight to behold. Not only fans, but hardened sports writers stood and applauded for five minutes. Neale took three bows and finally, Byrod called upon him to make a speech.

"It's nice to know that I still have so many friends among the people who used to holler from the stands, 'Sit down Greasy,'" Neale said.

Neale was dismissed as Eagles' coach after the 1950 season. No reason was offered. Neale had lifted the Eagles from a last place entry to three divisional NFL titles and two world championships.

Gordie Howe Is Scoring Leader

MONTREAL — (AP) — Gordie Howe, trigger man of Detroit's famed "production line," holds a slender one-point lead today in the National Hockey League's scoring race.

The ambidextrous Howe has collected 25 goals and 21 assists for 46 points, one more than veteran Elmer Lach of the Montreal Canadiens. Howe also tops the field in goals with 25, while Lach is the league's top playmaker with 33 assists.

Montreal's Maurice Richard, out of action for the last seven games because of injuries, and New York's Don Raleigh are tied for third place at 39 points each. Raleigh's 39 points matches his entire 1950-51 season's output.

Howe's linemates, center Sid Abel and left winger Ted Lindsay, also are among the top scorers. Lindsay is tied for sixth with 36 points and Abel is ninth with 33.

Terry Sawchuk, sophomore net-minder of the Red Wings, is way out in front in the goal-tending department. Sawchuk has a 1.78 goals-against average and leads in shutouts with ten. Backliner Gus Kyle of Boston is tops in penalties with 103 minutes.

Outboard Racers Have Meeting At Ishpeming

GLADSTONE—Robert Eisele, Iron Mountain, was elected commodore of the Upper Peninsula Outboard Racing association at its annual meeting held Sunday at Ishpeming. He succeeds Mason Meyer, Gladstone, to the office.

Harold Westman of Newberry and Gladstone was chosen vice commodore and LeRoy Hamilton of Gladstone was re-elected secretary-treasurer. Directors named are Mason Meyer, Gladstone; Fred Lonsdorf, Houghton; Waldemar and Chet Anderson, Ishpeming.

Gordon Elson, Ishpeming director of the American Power Boat Association, presented a report in which he explained new rules and regulations pertaining to outboard racing.

He elaborated on new APBA rules for '52 on boat weight and added weight regulations and revealed that racing lower units will be allowed again this year on Class C motors.

MILWAUKEE — (Special) — Five Upper Peninsula Golden Gloves champions moved through semi finals of the Milwaukee Journal fight tournament here last night and will enter finalist competition Tuesday night, Feb. 12.

Two U. P. champions, who battled for their crowns in Escanaba Saturday night, scored decisions here last night and three drew byes into the finals.

Harvard Lancoeur, Manistique lightweight novice, pounded out a three round decision over Lloyd Jack of Marshfield, Wis. Lancoeur led all the way and his stiff punching had the Marshfield boy in trouble several times.

LaMotta Takes Ring Defeat

BOSTON — Knockout beatings by champion Sugar Ray Robinson and Irish Bob Murphy appear to have taken a high toll on Lake LaMotta, boxing's famed Bull of the Bronx.

After a five-months layoff, that ex-middleweight titlist returned to the ring last night and dropped a 10-round divided decision to Norman Hayes, Boston's 20-year-old Negro battler who has championship ambitions.

Jake, now 30, appeared fat and heavy-footed at 169 1/2 pounds and against Hayes, who proved extremely easy to hit, Jake's blows seemed to lack their former zing.

LaMotta, a 1-2 favorite with a 6 1/2 pounds plump, lumbered after Hayes throughout. Many times Jake landed solid blows to the Boston youngster's head and body but they lacked authority.

Hayes recently conquered France's able Robert Villmain. In the final session, Hayes kept a sustained two-fisted rally going and impressed all but one of the three officials.

Referee Mel Manning gave Hayes a 99-98 points margin, Judge Johnny Norton 98-97 and Judge Joe Ricciotti sided with LaMotta, 97-95.

pion who had no opposition in Escanaba, whipped James Fink of Marshfield in three rounds. Minor was the harder puncher throughout and the clever 'Stique' scrap- per had his opponent on the floor in the second round. Both Minor and Lancoeur will move directly into championship fights on Feb. 12.

Drawing byes into the finals were Wayne Turnell, 135 pounds; Francis Selling, 147 pounds, and Ralph Butler, 175. All are open division fighters. They may have to box twice in the title round.

Carl Vertz, 50 novice champion at 126, decision Cpl. John Foster of Camp McCoy in his first appearance here. Vertz was forced to return to the ring later in the program and lost on a TKO in the third round to Ronald Moffat of Milwaukee who was fighting his first match of the night.

Unpopular Decision
Orville Belanger of Manistique, novice 118 pounder, lost a decision to David Trost of Milwaukee and Mel Corbin of the Soo was knocked out by Jerome Simms of Milwaukee in a novice 160 pound bout.

Larry Simpkins, the U. P.'s novice welterweight champ, lost a tough decision to Leroy Allen of Milwaukee who had scored three knockouts in previous tournament fights. Allen was given the nod on a split decision that was greeted with loud boos from the crowd at the huge new arena.

John McDonald, 112 novice champ from Menominee, was unable to make the trip to the Milwaukee tournament.

The Upper Peninsula fighters were accompanied by their trainers and Ken L. Gunderman, tournament manager.

Form Juvenile, Junior Hockey Leagues Here

Following a successful organization meeting at the city recreation center, two four-team juvenile and junior hockey leagues have been formed in Escanaba and regular scheduled play will be held at both the outdoor and indoor hockey rinks through February and as far into March as weather will permit.

Art Petersen, Escanaba recreation director, announced yesterday that two Escanaba sextets, one Gladstone and one Wells teams are entered in each league.

The juvenile league is for youngsters nine, 10, 11, 12 and 13 years of age, and the junior loop is for young fellows 14, 15, 16 and 17 years old.

An outstanding incentive for the Escanaba teams is the prospect of participating in the official state championship tournament on artificial ice at Pullar stadium in Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., late in March.

Spartan Mitters Lose To Gonzaga In Upset
SPOKANE, Wash. — (AP) — Michigan State College's hard-punching boxing team, victors in 21 straight collegiate matches, lost its 22nd last night to Gonzaga in a 6-3 upset.

However, it was MSC's Charles Spieser who provided the night's outstanding fight by narrowly outpointing Gonzaga freshman Mike McNulty in the heavy-weight division.

Spieser and Gerald Black, 147 pounds, both national champions, and little Jimmy Evans, 125 pounds, were the only Spartans to win decisions. Black won easily from Dave Smith of the Bulldogs.

After about seven minutes rest, the pair took off again for 16 laps. Dube started his sprint earlier and finished only one second off the first-heat pace at 3:15. He again beat his rival by about half a lap.

Jersey Joe Is Irked By Order

ROCHESTER, N. Y. — (AP) — Heavyweight champion Jersey Joe Walcott today was biding his time waiting for some reaction from the New York State Athletic commission after bluntly stating that "I wouldn't care if Bob Christenberry (commission chairman) takes it away from me."

Obviously irked at the "fight or else" ultimatum from Christenberry, Walcott said last night that what "I have been doing is more important than satisfying boxing commissioners. I've tried to impress on kids sincerity and faith in God."

Christenberry has ordered Walcott to sign for a defense of his crown by Feb. 5 or be stripped of it.

"If I'm not a credit to boxing, then he can have my title," Walcott said.

"I'm satisfied if I never fight again," Walcott said. "I haven't been able to spend four consecutive hours at home with my family because I've been going places trying to help people."

Allie Reynolds Named Hickok Award Winner

ROCHESTER, N. Y. — (AP) — For the second time in as many years, a member of the New York Yankees has won the Hickok Professional Athlete of the Year award. Pitcher Allie (Double No-Hit) Reynolds was named the winner of the award yesterday. He received $10,000 diamond-studded belt at the annual dinner of the Rochester Press and Radio club. Yankee shortstop Phil Rizzuto was the winner in 1951.

Amateur Hockey association which is sponsoring the state juvenile and junior hockey championship tournaments. In all probability, there will be entries from Marquette, Sault Ste. Marie, Escanaba, Gladstone, Manistique and other U. P. points.

Robert J. Grabowski is working with Petersen in getting the Escanaba youngster program in full swing. Jack Van Brocklin is in charge of the Gladstone program.

The practice schedule at the outdoor rink beside the junior high school for the season is as follows: Monday, Tuesday and Thursday, 7:30 to 9:30, and Saturday, 1 to 5 p. m.

Captains are urged to report their full rosters to Petersen at the city recreation center. Players not yet assigned to a team are asked to report to him there also. Everyone will be given a chance to play.

Al's Beat Kessler's 53-49 In Cage Clash
Don Paulin chunked in 16 points to lead Al's avert to a 53-49 independent win over Kessler's Bar at Perkins Sunday.

Top scorers for Kessler's were Hirm and Kessler who hit 14 and 13. In the preliminary St. Ann's junior cagers nudged Perkins 39-33 in an overtime period. Perkins led by two points with seven seconds left in the regulation time when Bob Dubord dropped in two free hrows to knot the score.

Petersen said that practice games would be played next week and regular league play will start the week of February 11.

The bunting is out for Frank "Puppy" Gresnick, veteran of Calumet hockey wars, who will make his first appearance on Escanaba ice since being reinstated when he competes with the fast Calumet Radars against the Escanaba Hawks in a Northern Michigan league game here tomorrow night.

On previous successive Wednesday nights, the new Escanaba Hawks convincingly defeated the Marquette Sentinels, 9-6, and the Portage Lake Pioneers, 5-3. The latter defeat was Portage Lake's first of the season and constituted quite a feather in Escanaba's hat. It earned a lot more respect for the Hawks throughout the Upper Peninsula.

Wrote one ardent fan from Iron Mountain: "We saw your Escanaba team beat Marquette and Portage Lake. We haven't seen them lose yet and we don't expect to when we come over to see you play Calumet this Wednesday night."

Radars Hepped Up
All other Escanaba area fans share the hope with this Iron Mountain hockey fan that the Hawks will come through against Calumet as they did against Marquette and Portage Lake.

One thing is certain—if they play the kind of hockey they did against the champion Pioneers, they will. It will take another tight defensive and close checking game to stop the Radars, who played Portage to a 3-3 tie last Saturday night.

It already is apparent that Calumet's youngsters can hold their own in N-M competition. Calumet has a host of talent to replace such old stars as Johnny Whittaker and Reuben Parske. It's nice, however, to have one old "vet" around who can still go and that's where "Puppy" Gresnick comes in.

'Blew His Cork'
The oldtimer "blew his cork" a couple of weeks ago and broke his stick over the shoulder of Mel Bertrand, of Escanaba. That resulted in an indefinite suspension that President E. J. Schumacher lifted after four games.

Generally, it was a popular reinstatement for Gresnick has played a lot of good hockey in the Upper Peninsula in the last 25 years, and it would be a shame to see the 40-year-old star bow out with the boos of even his hometown fans ringing in his ears. Now, perhaps, he can bow out gracefully after this season.

He'll still bounce and get bounced, but Upper Michigan puck fans hope he'll keep his stick below the shoulders (especially Bertrand's shoulders), which is where the rule book says it is supposed to be.

Escanaba will be at full strength and with a week's rest should give a good account of itself tomorrow night.

Coach Mark Olson expects to start Ted Olson, Joe Ricci and himself on the first line and Ed Broughton and Lolly Rose on defense with "old reliable" Ben Atwich in the nets. John Cortopassi, Guy Poce and either Buddy Provo or Dave Serbinski likely will work on the second line, the other pairing with Neil Sinclair and Les Young on the third line. Jerry Tagliabracchi and George Petaja will share blueline duties. Jim Rose and Carl Eastman will be on hand for utility duty.

Kentucky Moves Back As No. 1 Cage Quint

NEW YORK — (AP)—Kentucky climbed into the No. 1 spot in the weekly Associated Press basketball poll today—but the Wildcats had only narrow margins over Kansas State and Illinois.

Adolph Rupp's Bluegrass quintet totaled 790 points to 753 for Kansas State and 745 for third place Illinois. These three were far out front. Fourth-place Kansas had 523 points and fifth-place St. Bonaventure, one of the two major undefeated teams left, had 457.

Kentucky, which was on top in two of the first three polls of the season, lured 32 first-place votes from the nation's sports writers and sports casters. Each first-

Kell And Rookie Inked By Tigers

DETROIT — (AP)—The Detroit Tigers have signed their catch-all, hit-all third baseman, George Kell, and an 18-year-old high school right hander, Larry Donovan, of Ionia, Mich., to 1952 contracts.

Kell, whose .319 average was third best in the American League and whose fielding was the best among third basemen, was reported to have taken "a slight cut" from his rumored $42,000 salary of 1951.

Kell, who came to terms yesterday, was the 14th regular Tiger to sign his contract. Several who had booming years as the Tigers finished second in 1950 and then slumped to mediocre levels when the Bengals came tagging in fifth in 1951, are reported to have been offered contracts 25 percent—the limit under baseball law—below what they got last year.

Three One-Hitters

Young Donovan, signed within 24 hours after he got his high school diploma, is slated for farming. Terms of his signing were not disclosed.

Donovan, who stands six-feet-three, pitched three one-hitters in his three years on the Ionia High team. He won 12 and lost one with an Ionia amateur team, pitching 129 innings, giving up only 42 hits, striking-out 86 and walking only three.

The Detroit Free Press interpreted management's report of a slight cut for Kell to mean he will get between $38,000 and $40,000 this season.

1949 Champ

The popular Arkansan was American League batting champ with a .343 average in 1949 and hit .340 in 1950.

"I came to town (from Swanton, Ark.) to sit down with my attorney and work out my income tax," Kell told newsmen. "As long as I was here, I decided to sign up. I hope to have a real good season."

"I didn't do any basketball refereeing this season, just worked around the farm with my black Angus cattle. I'm in real good shape and weigh about the same as I did at the end of the season."

"I plan to head for Florida around Feb. 20th."

place vote counted 10 points, second place nine, and so on down the line.

Duquesne Seventh

Rounding out the first ten, in order, were St. Louis, Duquesne (the other undefeated team with a 12-0 mark), Iowa, Washington and West Virginia.

The most impressive jump was made by Kansas State, which was seventh a week ago. The K-Staters Saturday hung the first defeat of the season on Kansas, which had been in the No. 1 spot for four straight weeks. The Jayhawks, incidentally, got only one first place vote.

The first ten took a real scrambling. In fact, the only school to hold the same spot it held a week ago was St. Bonaventure. No. 5, Illinois, on top of the heap last week, also tasted its first defeat Saturday.

Seton Hall Threatens

Duquesne, which jumped from the No. 10 position, made its record 12-0 last night by whipping Villanova, 83-61. The Illini (12-1) trounced Purdue, 84-57, and Kentucky (15-2) defeated Vanderbilt, 88-51, in the only games involving first ten teams.

Seton Hall jumped to the chief threatening spot this week, holding down the No. 11 post, which

Ball Should Not Be Brought Back Higher Than Shoulder

During the third step, I am half way through my approach.

The ball reaches the top of the backswing as the right foot slides forward into position.

My body is bent forward slightly.

I am ready to move into the final step.

The body is bent at approximately a 45-degree angle from the waist.

My knees are bent.

The left arm is extended forward to balance and compensate for the ball which is behind the body.

Many bring the ball back too far on the backswing, incorrectly believing that extra speed will knock down more pins. The ability to send the ball into the 1-3 pocket is more important than trying to blast the pins out of the pit.

Bringing the ball back too far on the backswing also tends to turn the body away from the target.

The right arm has brought the ball straight back and is ready to bring it straight forward in the delivery.

Don't turn the wrist in the backswing.

The right hand, wrist, arm and shoulder work as a unit.

Keep the arm well extended but don't let it stiffen.

Golfer Plane Crash Victim 'Most Courageous Athlete'

PHILADELPHIA — (AP)—Stewart (Skip) Alexander thanked "borrowed courage" and the marvels of modern medicine for the privilege of being alive to receive the Philadelphia Sportswriters accolade as "most courageous athlete of 1951".

Alexander, who fought his way back to the golfing tournament trail after 17 major operations for injuries suffered in a plane crash, was honored last night at the 48th annual writers' dinner. Also reted were Princeton's great halfback, Dick Kazmaier, the "Athlete of the Year," and Bob Ward, Maryland tackle, the "Line-man of the Year."

Carries Scars

His face lined with scars and his fingers, which once controlled some of golf's best shotmaking, still bent and bruised, Alexander told some 1,300 diners that he owed part of his recovery to letters and telegrams of encouragement from people all over the nation. "It was sort of borrowed courage," he said.

Speaking clearly but hesitantly, the obviously overwhelmed Alexander said he accepted the honor with humility, "since the real courage being displayed today is by the boys who aren't here, the men in Korea."

Alexander's tragic accident occurred Sept. 24, 1950, shortly after he had finished sixth in the Kansas City Open. He was trying to get home to see his family in Lexington, N. C., before embarking on an exhibition tour to South America and the West Indies. The Civil Air Patrol offered to fly him to Louisville. The CAP plane crashed near Evansville, Ind., killing three CAP officers. Only a

Duquesne Faces Basketball Jinx

NEW YORK — (AP)—Duquesne, one of the nation's two unbeaten collegiate basketball teams, is bucking a stiff jinx in its effort to finish the season with a perfect record.

For, over the past five years, Duquesne teams have started the season with juicy winning streaks, only to see them smashed to bits.

Just look at this:

Last year, the Dukes won their first 10 games—then boom! A 12-point loss to Cincinnati.

The year before that it was 16 straight, before Louisville stepped in.

12 In Row

This, naturally, leaves only one question in mind: Will they escape this jinx year and extend their winning streak, currently 12 straight, until it embraces the entire season?

Off their form of last night they might go all the way this time. They certainly looked like the real stuff in whipping Villanova, 83 to 61, and holding the Wildcats' big scorer, Larry Hennessey, to one point.

After the game, Hennessey's coach, Al Severance, said his star—a gent who had averaged 22 points a game—just couldn't cope with the guarding set by the tall Duke players.

Bonnies Fifth

Incidentally, these winning streaks have impressed the nation's sports writers and sports-casters, who gave both teams high ranking in this week's Associated Press poll. St. Bonaventure was placed fifth, while Duquesne was ranked seventh.

The No. 1 team, Kentucky, also saw action last night, whipping Vanderbilt, 88 to 51. Cliff Hagan scored 27 points.

Last week's top team, Illinois, was upset by DePaul Saturday night and fell to the No. 3 slot. But the Illini bounced back last night and drubbed Purdue, 84 to 57, for their fifth straight Big Ten victory.

In other leading games, Pittsburgh upset Notre Dame, 62-55 and Iowa State turned back Nebraska, 78-72.

I Led Three Lives Citizen — 'Communist' — Counterspy

By HERBERT A. PHILBRICK

The Spy Is Spied Upon: A Trap Is Set for Him, Alone In An Office At Night, But He Sidesteps It

VIII

My Party Card Goes to F.B.I.

The Communist party swathed itself in patriotism and gave itself wholeheartedly to the winning of the war—while at the same time in secret classes in Cambridge it was teaching me the necessity of violent revolution to hammer out a Communist victory.

It was the most peaceful realignment of party policy I ever observed. The only outward sign I saw was the sudden termination of Dave Bennett's classes on Marxist revolution. William Z. Foster, protested privately but went along. Sam Darcy, a central committeeman, protested publicly, and was expelled.

At one of our cell meetings with Alice Gordon soon after I joined the party, the subject for discussion was the national committee's proposal for abolition of the party and creation of the milder and more co-operative Communist Political Association. I decided to rock the boat.

"Look," I said, borrowing a page from the uncompromising bolshevism of Gus Johnson, "for generations the suppressed working peoples all over the world have been dreaming of the overthrow of their oppressors and the establishment of the dictatorship of the proletariat. For years we have been their champions in the struggle. Now are we going to throw all that out the window—admit that we were wrong, or acknowledge that we are weak?"

The question spurred some one to answer with the suggestion that the revolution was not being canceled—merely postponed. That was what I was waiting for.

Tear Up Cards

The meeting broke up in confusion. Our cards were handed around and we were instructed to make a mental note of the number and tear them up. Most members of the C. P. A. would keep their cards, but those of us who were under cover would not run any risk of detection. We examined the new cards. A wastebasket was furnished for us to drop them in.

In the confusion of disbanding, with many of the cell members keeping me busy by informal continuation of the dispute I had started, I took a risk, surreptitiously avoided tearing up my card, and slipped it in my pocket for transmission to the F. B. I. I took the chance that the wastebasket scraps might be examined, but fortunately they were not.

The district office in the Little Building was the focal point of Communist operations throughout all of New England, and so I was in an extremely advantageous position as an intelligence agent for the F. B. I.

Headquarters officers unwittingly helped me by screening my movements from the public and the police. The party itself wanted me to remain underground if possible.

The office suite consisted of four rooms at the end of a corridor on the Tremont Street wing of the building, next door to the Majestic Theater and directly across the street from the Hotel Touraine. Fanny Hartman, the district organizer, and the real district leader, was a vest pocket edition of party stalwart Elizabeth Gurley Flynn, but what she lacked in size and power she more than made up in skill and precision. As the strategic brain of the New England Communist party she demanded and received unwavering loyalty from every one under her jurisdiction.

She was in time double-crossed and crushed by the very machine to which she had enslaved herself. In 1945 she was elbowed aside by the national hierarchy in favor of Emanuel Blum, who was a more powerful political strategist but a blundering fool by comparison.

Hood Front Man

Otis Hood was the front man for the party in New England, nominally the Massachusetts chairman, a public Communist who perpetually ran on the party ticket for offices ranging from Governor of Massachusetts to Boston school committeeman.

Another in the public eye was Anne Burlak, known throughout New England as "The Red Flame," a title she acquired, not from the color of her hair—which was blonde—but because of her leadership in violent strike activity in Lawrence, Lowell, Providence and other cities in the area.

William Harrison was another occupant of the district office. The perennial vice-president of the district, Bill held a title which had neither meaning nor power. He was the editor of "The Boston Chronicle," a Negro newspaper.

It was from Fanny Hartman that I got my first inkling of the innermost secret organization of a political conspiracy that is based on concentric circles of secrecy. The cell to which I belonged was too sour over my deviation, even though it was anti-capitalist deviation, to elect me a delegate to the District One convention in the spring of 1944.

At the last moment, however, I received a call from Fanny Hartman: "I think it would be good if you would come to the convention."

Fanny greeted me warmly, and then went into a huddle with the credentials official. Finally they produced a visitor's card on which Fanny wrote my first name. She paused reflectively a moment, then scribbled another entry on my card and handed it to me. "Here," she said, "this will take you in and out for the various sessions."

Across the face of the card was written "Herb," and then the cryptic designation—"Pro-4."

In all of my associations with Communists and their front organizations I had never before heard of such a tag. At headquarters and elsewhere I had run across countless names of party cells and groups, names like the Dorchester Debs, or the John Reed Club. But this was new to me, and for a long time—a matter of years—I wondered about and searched for the answer to "Pro-4."

Picked Up Everything

I sent the Pro-4 information along to Hal Leary.

I picked up everything I could without actually rifling the headquarters files: copies of directives turned out by mimeograph, sheets of discarded carbon paper on which a letter was legible, hasty notes on snatches of conversation, telephone numbers and addresses. If a party functionary scrawled a memorandum on a tablet, I made an excuse to get the underlying sheet of paper off the pad. The disturbance of the fibres of the paper was indelible, and the message written by the functionary could easily be deciphered by the F.B.I.'s scientific laboratories.

More often than not the F.B.I. knew of a forth-coming meeting, including the date, place, those in attendance, speakers, and even what the speaker would say, long before the information was in the hands of rank-and-file party members.

Even while my spying was most active, I felt that I was most persistently spied upon. One night after a meeting at the Bennett apartment in Cambridge, I walked toward a bus stop on Massachusetts Avenue for a bus to North Station. I suddenly became aware that I was being followed. I thought it possible that my imagination might be deceiving me, so I determined to give it a test. I strolled in leisurely fashion, enjoying the evening air, half way across Cambridge, following a circuitous route down dark gabled streets, stopping to look into store windows, wandering almost aimlessly. I headed in the general direction of the Central Square subway station where I could catch a train to North Station. All that distance, despite the twists and turns I made across the city, the shadow stayed a discreet distance behind me until I entered the subway.

I was not immune even at home. In the summer of 1944 I staged an American Youth for Democracy outing at my house in Wakefield. Most of the crowd, assembling for a day of swimming at the nearby beach, and games and social activities in our big, barn-like garage, came toward midday by train. But quite unexpectedly, two carloads of young members arrived ahead of them by car.

In a gay, holiday mood, the six or eight early arrivals swarmed into the house. Before Eva or I realized what was happening, scheduled to mimeograph and mail out a large quantity of party material from the district headquarters office. Several days before I undertook the job, Chairman Otis Hood made a special point of telling me that, on that particular night, all of the headquarters personnel would be busy elsewhere and the office would be deserted. On the appointed afternoon I showed up just before closing time. Hood suggested that he give me his key so that I could return after a quick supper and continue my work. He showed me exactly where to put the key when I left for the night—in the top drawer of the receptionist's desk by the front window—and admonished me to be sure to lock the office door and close it tight. I assured him I would and went out to supper. When I returned there was no one in the office. This was a perfect opportunity. Now I could get my hands on any quantity of material in the office files, in Hood's desk, in Fanny Hartman's sanctum. It was too perfect.

Instead, I stayed right on the job in the outer office. I did not go into any of the other rooms. I worked at the mimeograph machine, at the card files, at the typewriter by the reception desk directly in front of the window where I could be seen plainly from the building across the street.

When I left I stepped to the drawer of the desk by the big window and carefully placed the key where Hood had ordered me. Then I closed the drawer, turned out the light, checked the snug lock on the door and closed it tight.

No Indiscreet Moves

There had not been a single indiscreet move on my part. For across the street in the Hotel Touraine I knew there were party watchers, scrutinizing me carefully with binoculars through the big front windows of the district office. They could see where I went and they could plainly observe me replacing the office key in the designated place. How I knew all this must remain a secret.

During that long evening at the district office, where the party counterspies could watch my actions but not my plans, I was able to devise a scheme the details of which must still remain secret. It gave to the F. B. I. information they wanted on directives and secret documents covering the party's plans and policies in New England. The district leaders do not know to this day how it was done.

When I stepped to the drawer of the desk by the big window and carefully placed the key where Hood had ordered me. Then I closed the drawer, turned out the light, checked the snug lock on the door and closed it tight.

Used Car Sales Tax Bill Filed

LANSING — (AP) — A new type of "used car use tax" was filed in the Senate last night with powerful supporters.

The measure, differing from the Higgins Bill defeated twice before, would impose a three per cent specific tax on the sale of used cars through licensed used car dealers.

Thus it would exempt so-called "isolated" sales, those between individuals—a feature of the previous measures which was widely criticized as unenforceable.

Imposition of the specific tax presumably would take the sales out from under the sales tax, which now goes largely to local governments.

The sponsors were Senators James Teahen of Owosso, George N. Higgins of Ferndale, Harry F. Hittle of East Lansing, and Edward Hutchinson of Ferndale, all Republicans.

The Senate passed and sent to the House a bill declaring any state liquor inventory above $12,000,000 to be a general fund asset even though it were not liquidated. This would have the effect of making the state's deficit appear smaller than it is.

Wall Street

NEW YORK — (AP) — Stock prices moved irregularly higher in today's market.

Most gains amounted to less than a dollar a share, and there was a persistent scattering of narrow declines.

Steels, rails, rubbers and a few favorites provided the principal plus signs.

Trading started off at a fairly active pace with some large blocks of shares changing hands, but slowed thereafter.

Texas Pacific Land Trust had a four-point jump at one time. Foster Wheeler, on news of a 100 per cent stock dividend, added more than a point. Philadelphia & Reading Coal & Iron extended its activity with a major fractional improvement, on a 6,000-share block.

Tennessee Corp. opened down 1/8 on a block of 10,000 shares. Other backward shares were J. I. Case, American Tobacco, American Smelting, Du Pont, American Can and Standard Oil (N. J.).

Corporate bonds showed only narrow changes. U. S. Government Loans, traded over-the-counter, stayed close to previous levels.

McGrath Will Go On Carpet

WASHINGTON — (AP) — The House judiciary committee today ordered an investigation of the administration of the justice department and the office of Attorney General J. Howard McGrath.

The investigation will be made by seven members of the committee, four Democrats and three Republicans, to be designated by Chairman Celler (D-NY).

It was ordered at a closed session of the committee and by a vote members would not disclose. Republicans had urged that the inquiry be ordered, as a followup to disclosures of government tax scandals.

Rep. Keating (R-NY) sponsored the resolution to investigate McGrath and his department.

Mrs. McCullough slapped the child and struck her with a cleaning fluid bottle. Then the woman gave the bottle to her husband because "she wasn't strong enough."

McCullough struck the child several times "as hard as I could."

"This didn't kill her. She was still breathing, so I put my knee on her chest and strangled her."

Detectives testified Mrs. McCullough told them later: "We had to finish her off as she was mocking God. She wouldn't get down on her knees and pray."

Menominee Amnesia Victim Identified In Denver Hospital

DENVER — (AP) — PFC. William R. Kelsey, amnesia victim from Menominee, Mich., was receiving further treatment today at Fitzsimons Army Hospital at Aurora, a Denver suburb.

The Army took over the case of the 20-year-old soldier after establishing that Kelsey had been assigned to the 457th Airborne Field Artillery of the 11th Airborne Division but never arrived at his base at Camp Campbell, Ky. Kelsey, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Kelsey of Menominee, had left his home Dec. 6 for Camp Campbell, then found himself in Terra Haute, Ind., without knowing who he was.

He then hitchhiked to Denver and applied at the Colorado Psychopathic Hospital for further treatment.

Capt. Harold Sweetman, provost marshal for the Fifth Army here, said Kelsey is married to Mrs. Jeanne Kelsey, 20, whose home is in Marinette, Wis. His wife's name, tattooed on his forearm, was a major clue in helping establish his identity.

Trucking Wage Dispute Ended

DETROIT — (AP) — An agreement expected to avert threatened state-wide strike of AFL Teamsters was reached here last night. It grants wage increases and hitches future pay to the cost of living.

It still must be ratified by the 6,000 union drivers working for 500 in-state trucking companies and cartage firms.

Negotiators for the Teamsters and the Michigan Trucking Association and the Detroit Cartage-men's Association reached the agreement after many drawn-out sessions. The truckers had served an ultimatum to strike Thursday night if no new contract was signed.

Detroit-Pontiac area drivers get a 7 1/2-cent-an-hour raise immediately while outstate teamsters get a 15-cents-an-hour boost now. Both also get shorter work weeks and other benefits.

State Mediator Walter E. Mehler and Federal Conciliator Sloan G. Springfield described the Detroit-Pontiac agreement as follows:

A three-year contract with 7 1/2 cents an hour more the first year and 5-cents-an-hour improvement factor increase for the next two years; three weeks paid vacation for 12-year men, starting in 1953; a work week reduction from 45 to 42 1/2 hours, pending Wage Stabilization Board approval, and in six months, a reduction to 40 hours with no reduction in pay; six paid holidays, and cost-of-living adjustment every six months. (Detroit-Pontiac drivers now get $1.79 an hour.)

For outstate drivers, Mehler and Springfield said it meant a 15-cent-an-hour raise to bring the scale nearer in line with that of the Detroit-Pontiac area; a work-week cut from 45 to 40 hours in nine months; and identical provisions with Detroit-Pontiac contracts on other points.

Russians Condemned By UN For Failing To Honor Chiang Treaty

PARIS — (AP) — With almost half the member nations declining to vote, the United Nations political committee today condemned the Soviet Union as having failed to honor its 1945 treaty of friendship with the Chinese government of Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek.

The vote, 24 to 9, with 25 abstentions, came shortly after Soviet delegate Jacob A. Malik charged that under the direction of two American generals there is being built up in Burma a Chinese Nationalist "shock force, armed to the teeth, which at any moment can provoke aggression." The U. S. has repeatedly denied similar charges raised by the Chinese Reds.

Before Malik spoke the U. S. again had rejected such charges and implied it would not aid the Chinese Nationalists in Burma.

Automobile Tumbles Off Bridge, Carries 7 Persons To Death

KINGMAN, Kas. — (AP) — An automobile smashed into a bridge abutment and tumbled into a deep slough yesterday, carrying seven persons to their deaths.

Only one occupant escaped, Betty Thomas, 13, crawled through a broken window and floated to the surface. She suffered bruises and shock.

Dead were Mrs. Ida May Thomas, Betty's mother, and four of her children, and Mrs. Connie Mae Anderson and her year-old daughter, Carol Lynn. The Thomas children were Leland, Eugene, 3, Lonnie, Gene, six months, Carol, 8, and Linda, 12.

Mrs. Thomas and Mrs. Anderson were sisters. Betty said a tire blew out just before the automobile hit a bridge on U. S. highway 54 near Kingman. Both families lived in Wichita, Kas.

Job Shortage New Political Issue

Moody promptly retorted that Ferguson was sore because he hadn't thought of the task force idea first.

Compensation No Solution
Ferguson also has made it clear he doesn't think much of another Moody proposal—federal unemployment compensation payments to supplement state jobless benefits.

More unemployment compensation is not a very satisfactory substitute for jobs, Ferguson has told interviewers.

Moody agrees on this point. But he contends more jobless pay is needed where men are idle through no fault of their own because of dislocations caused by the defense program.

"Congress has permitted rapid tax write-off for new plants and equipment," he said. "It has granted price relief to manufacturers, distributors and retailers x x x. It has granted special tax carry-back and carry-forward provisions for corporations. It has established a new agency to work in the interests of small business concerns."

"Is it less correct or less equitable for the Congress to protect great numbers of loyal working-men from the impact of the conversion program?"

He has proposed that the federal government pay a man receiving state unemployment compensation an additional 50 per cent of his basic state benefit. He would match state payments for dependents dollar-for-dollar.

Corporations Pay
"That would be fine for the Detroit unemployed if the country could afford it," commented Rep. Hoffman (R-Mich.), intimating it can't. He said he probably will oppose the proposal, which was introduced in the House by Rep. Dingell (D-Mich.).

Rep. Dondoro (R-Mich.), who also announced his opposition, denied that the federal government has given any more protection to corporations than to workers. He said:

"Corporations this year will pay in taxes about 70 per cent of their net earnings, while the rest of us will pay only about 25 per cent."

Federal unemployment compensation, Dondoro said, "eventually would make the government responsible for full employment at full pay for everybody at all times."

The debate goes on.

Thief Gets Lecture, Scoops Up $100,000 Worth Of Jewelry

NEW YORK — (AP) — A wealthy 68-year-old matron determinedly lectured the tough young bandit on the evils of crime.

For 30 minutes he listened as he scooped up $100,000 worth of her jewelry, then he pressed a knife against her back and said:

"You don't have so long to live—and I don't care how many people I kill."

The man, a Negro about 20 years old, then fled yesterday from the Fifth Avenue apartment of Mrs. Scott Scammell, wife of a New York lawyer and a member of a wealthy Trenton, N. J., family.

Mrs. Scammell said the man suddenly had confronted her in her apartment. She said he kept whispering "sh—, sh—" as she lectured.

"Why don't you stop this?" Mrs. Scammell asked him. "I'll open the back pantry door and let you out the service entrance."

The man tied her with a pair of socks belonging to her husband. She later was released when three servants, who had been in their own quarters and were unaware of the intruder, heard her screams.

Mother And Son Killed By Train

MONROE, Mich. — (AP) — A mother and her son were killed in a grade crossing crash south of here this morning.

The tragedy, in which a Pennsylvania passenger train demolished a car, set up a melodramatic chain of events.

Only a short time before, the two victims had parted from the husband and father.

The latter, Frank Sandefur, was unaware of the deaths and on his way out of Michigan.

Word was sent on ahead of him—to Port Wayne, Ind.—but it was only to the effect that there had been an "emergency in the family."

Killed at the crossing at 6:45 a. m. were his wife, Mary, 36, and his son, Clay, 17.

Father, mother and son had left home together for work.

The mother and son were employed in Toledo in the plant of the Industrial Enameling Co. The father drives a car haulway truck for the E and L Transport Co. of Dearborn.

Mrs. Sandefur and her son left Sandefur at his truck, parked on US-24. They started off for Toledo, he for Ft. Wayne with a load of cars.

On the crossing about a mile away the mother and son were killed.

Gasoline Dealers In Detroit Agree To End Price War

DETROIT — (AP) — Detroit gasoline dealers have agreed to act together to avoid a profit-killing retail price war.

More than 600 members of the Retail Gas Dealers Association of Michigan met last night to discuss the third price cut within a week by two wholesalers.

Sun Oil Co. and Shell Oil Co. announced another 1/2 cent a gallon cut which put the price of regular gasoline at 25.7 cents.

At last night's meeting the Dealers Association voted to pass along all wholesale cuts to customers but to guard the five cent a gallon cost margin allowed them by state law.

Executive Manager John W. Nerlinger Jr. of the association said, "Michigan was the first state to vote a law forbidding sales below cost. This gives the independent dealers gasoline stability the other states don't have."

Three Shots Miss In Suicide Attempt At Detroit Pool Hall

DETROIT — (AP) — Thomas (Dink) Mills, 32, who fired three shots in an effort to end his life and failed to connect on any of them, was held today for mental observation.

Police said Mills walked into a pool hall on East Jefferson Avenue last night carrying a shotgun wrapped in newspapers.

As patrons watched, fascinated, he loaded the gun and propped it between his chin and the floor. He announced, "here goes." Just then a bystander, James Woodward, knocked the gun so that the shot went through the ceiling.

The 40-odd patrons headed for the street as Mills put the gun back under his chin. Woodward again knocked the gun away. Attracted by the shots, Patrolman Louis Beebe ran in and grabbed the gun as it went off a third time.

Wildman Of Arizona Mountains Hunted In Bloody Basin Country

PHOENIX, Ariz. — (AP) — A five-foot man who once terrorized rural areas of Arizona's historic bloody basin country is being hunted throughout the state today.

Jean V. Darnell, 52, known as the "Wildman of the Mountains," is believed headed back to that former Indian battle ground some 50 miles north of Phoenix.

He escaped from the Arizona State Hospital for insane yesterday, breaking through a screen and sliding down a drain pipe. It was his fourth break out of the institution since being committed in 1947.

Darnell, who has been surrounded with legends of great strength and stamina, gained his name while at large in 1948. He roamed the hills of southern Yavapai county.

He grew a long flowing beard and was credited with being able to run like a deer. Some officers who finally tracked him down after two months of hunting claimed he could go 60 miles without stopping.

Rabbits do not necessarily have gall bladders. When they do, the size of the gall bladder may vary from very small to longer than the length of the animal's liver lobe.

Security Grants To Britain Will Be Spent In U. S.

than a year ago. That was when things were looking up and British dollar reserves were rising.

However, in the last half of 1951, Harriman said, "a very serious drain" reduced the reserves by $1,532,000,000 to $2,355,000,000 at the end of the year. He said it was due in large part to inflation resulting from the efforts of the west to shore up defenses against the threat of Communist aggression.

The allotment was only half of what Britain originally sought. France expects to get some 300 million dollars in direct grants and in dollars spent by the U. S. there for military installations and similar purposes.

Can't Afford Slush
Harriman made a brief announcement of the administration's decision. He released at the same time a letter he wrote Sunday to Chairman Connally (D-Tex.) of the Senate and House Foreign Affairs, Armed Services and Appropriations committees.

Noting that Britain has sought recently to curtail non-defense imports and hold back civilian consumption in order to conserve dollar earnings and reserves, and also that the Commonwealth countries are considering similar action, Harriman wrote Connally that "these measures can not alone suffice to meet the present crisis."

He said the United Kingdom is dependent on its dollar earnings for many essential imports and these must be maintained if Britain keeps up its defense production.

"The raw materials and components to be financed by this 300 million dollars will be directly related to the defense program," Harriman said. "In addition, the government of the United Kingdom has agreed to apply the sterling counterpart to the maintenance of its defense production program."

"We estimated that if this amount were not made available to the United Kingdom, it would be necessary for the U. K. to reduce its defense program by more than twice as much. In light of the fact that the British are now producing more military equipment than all the other European NATO countries combined, it is considered particularly important that such a reduction in its defense program should not have to be made."

While Ireland has not formally disowned wedlock, her children enter into it so seldom and so late the Irish nation is slowly but surely vanishing from the face of the earth.—Rev. John O'Brien of Notre Dame University.
